Nine States Wage Hunt for 3 Saboteurs

Long Islander Says Three Answered Description of Nazi Agents.

FBI WIDENS SEARCH

Occurs Near Place Where Four Landed From German Sub Recently.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Police in nine states intensified their search today for three German master saboteurs advertised by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after a Long Island motorist reported they had begged a ride of him.

A merchant marine inspector, whose name was withheld, told Nassau county police that three men answering the description of the wanted saboteurs had stopped his automobile near Bridgehampton and asked a ride to the railroad station.

Bridgehampton is 20 miles west of Amagansett, where a German submarine landed four of the eight saboteurs now being tried in Washington.

Police went to Bridgehampton and were advised that another motorist, who said the trio did not resemble the suspects, had taken them to the railroad station.

FBI headquarters said it was receiving hundreds of tips from the public, and, although most proved false, the search for the three men would not be relaxed.

Resume Trial of 8 Nazi Saboteurs

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The trial of eight Nazi saboteurs—overshadowed by warnings that three more may be at large—resumed today with cross-examination of the seventh defendant.

It appeared likely that the eighth saboteur would testify before nightfall and that final arguments may begin tomorrow or Wednesday.

The general public was "alerted" Saturday against further incursions by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He flooded the na-

Jury Starts To Hear Evidence In Wife Slaying Case

Richland county's first murder trial in more than three years opened this morning in common pleas court as a jury of eight men and four women began hearing evidence in the second-degree murder case against John Johnson, colored, 42-year-old former employe of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company.

The regular petit jury, which had already been drawn, was called back to hear the case, enabling court officials to get the hearing under way on schedule. Under the state law, it is not necessary to call a special jury except in first-degree murder cases.

Johnson, represented by Attorney George W. Biddle, is accused of stabbing his wife, Mary, to death on June 17 with a pocket knife. The couple had been living

Scribe Flies On Bomber In Raid In Kiska

Gives Graphic Account of Air Attack On Jap-Held Base.

(Editor's Note: This is another of a series of stories by Keith Wheeler, Chicago Times correspondent in the Aleutian Islands. Wheeler, the first accredited correspondent to reach Alaska, was attached to the U. S. fleet and arrived there shortly after the Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor June 3.)

By KEITH WHEELER
(Copyright, 1942, Chicago Times)

ABOARD FORTRESS BOMBER, En Route From Kiska—Ten minutes ago our bomb bay doors opened and disgorged two tons of dynamite on the Japanese tent city at Kiska island.

Nine minutes and forty-five seconds ago the first bomb struck down there under the mist. At two-second intervals the others followed and laced through Kiska's Tundra valley.

The yellow-painted 500-pound packages have done their work, and by now, one supposes, the living are counting the dead.

Thus another bombing raid on Kiska comes to as successful a conclusion as any raid can hope for in this world's worst flying weather.

This one attack of many attacks began to take form an hour and forty-five minutes ago when the major shoveled on the coal and heaved the big bomber up out of what had until then passed for visibility. We roared into the soup in a steady grinding climb and for seven endless minutes we bored through a thick gray nothing with no top and no bottom. Then we broke through into another world of unearthly beauty.

Below on either side and behind lay the billowy top of the fog, so blinding white in the sun that it burned your eyes.

Somewhere under that weird panorama lay Kiska and on Kiska were the men we have come miles to kill.

We climbed, going up where the air was thin and cold and rare as champagne.

"There's your mountains," the whiskery bombardier said, pointing ahead.

There was Kiska, tucked under a hundred-acre blob of cotton.

SUSPECT HELD

Man, 22, To Be Questioned In Molesting Cases.

Arrested Saturday night by Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, a 22-year-old Mansfield man was to be questioned today concerning a number of molesting cases which have been reported to police and the sheriff in the past two weeks.

Sheriff Robinson said the suspect held in the county jail is known to have a record of sex offenses although he has never served a prison term.

The sheriff said he planned to question the youth specifically in connection with a reported attack two weeks ago on an 18-year-old girl east of Mansfield, who was found lying on the lawn back of her home with her clothing torn.

REVENUE CLIMBS

B. And O. Reports Highest Income On Record For June.

BALTIMORE—(AP)— The Baltimore and Ohio railroad reported today that June operating revenues of $25,953,206 were the highest for any June on record, and was an increase of $6,611,129 or 34-18 per cent over the same month a year ago.

The net income for June, 1942, after providing for amortization of defense projects, accrual for federal income taxes, and fixed charges, including all interest, was $3,149,120, the report said. This compared with $3,984,203 net income for June, 1941.

AIRPORT WORK CREW LAID OFF

Wolff Says Maintenance Work Needing Immediate Action Completed.

Declaring no maintenance work demanding immediate attention existed at Mansfield's municipal airport, Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff Saturday laid off a man and two boys who were hired in June by Mayor W. J. Locke to carry out improvements for which council had appropriated $5,000.

Final pay checks were issued, as of last Friday, to Matthew Elias, William Kochheiser and Jack Saylor. Records of City Auditor Paul L. Kelley show a total airport expenditure thus far of $696.93, the entire amount being for wages excepting a small sum for machinery hire for grading runways.

Senate Group Sets Up Money For 'Secret Weapon.'

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Behind closed doors, the senate naval committee approved today a $974,634,000 naval expansion program which contemplates a $30,000,000 expenditure for secret training and a mysterious new weapon.

Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) announced the approval but did not elaborate on a statement made at the time of house passage last week by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house naval committee that the $30,000,000 would be spent "for a kind of secret training and a kind of secret weapon."

The bill provides, among other things, for a broad extension of naval aviation facilities designed to turn out 2,500 aviators a month and development of naval outposts, some in Alaska.

DEFENDS RIGHT TO AIR LICENSE

Radio Station Called on To Show Why FCC Shouldn't Order Revocation.

A hearing to determine whether the Federal Communications commission shall grant renewal of the license of radio station WMAN in Mansfield opened shortly before noon today before Examiner P. W. Seward at the Richland county courthouse.

Issues to be determined by the FCC before the commission shall act on the license renewal are:

(1) Whether the present owners and operators are qualified to continue as operators.

(2) Whether the operators have complied with the FCC rules regarding organization and reports of the station to the commission.

(3) Whether false or misleading statements have been made to the commission.

(4) To obtain full information regarding organization, ownership, management, operation—and control of the station.

Threatened Meat Shortage Strikes Nearer Mansfield

The meat shortage threat increased for Mansfield housewives today as the amount of beef and ham coming shipped into the city by packers was rationed by wholesalers.

Despite attempts of the department of agriculture to effect a better balance between thet prices paid farmers and the ceiling retail prices, Mansfield dealers said they are able to obtain less than half the meat they order from packers.

One dealer said he was nearly out of hams and he is being limited to one-third of his previous orders for hams and beef.

The U. S. department of agriculture's program was beginning to show results today, however,

'PITCH IN,' SAYS COUNCILMAN ON NEW INDUSTRY

Kyle Says He'll Ask Council To Back Move, If and When One Gets Under Way.

CALLS FOR ALL TO HELP

Cites 'Rocking Chair' Attitude of Mansfield, Sounds Plea For Civic Progress.

Declaring "we should all get out of the rocking chair and go to work on this," a Mansfield councilman today said he would introduce in city council a resolution setting up a "pledge of cooperation" as the city's contribution to any movement started to bring a new industry to Mansfield—if and when such a movement starts.

The councilman is George C. Kyle, who said he was prompted to propose this action after reading last week's series of News-Journal stories, showing what is happening in Marion with a giant war industry under construction, and in Newark where work is to start on a new industry soon.

"I think it is our duty to get back all people who have left Mansfield. And Mansfield should begin to stir itself out of its sleep and make some progress," the councilman said.

"It seems that the big trouble with Mansfield is that its people are too willing to sit back and let the other fellow do it.

"I think if every man, city official, Chamber of Commerce member, labor, business men—every one—will get out and pitch, we can show Marion and Newark and every other city in Ohio just what kind of stuff we are made of here.

"Don't forget, we are in a war, we don't know how long it will last. It is our duty to help and if we can benefit the city at the same time, why shouldn't we?"

In reference to his proposed resolution, Councilman Kyle said that if and when a movement for an industry starts, he believed it "just and proper" that whoever takes the responsibility of such a move should have an "expression from the city in support of such a move."

"We should not sit back and watch Marion, Newark and all these other cities around us get ahead. They took the initiative and got there.

"We may be too late to get a

PROBE SLAYING

Police Investigate Death of War Worker, Wife.

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Incredulous authorities in nearby Upper Darby today were investigating the case of a 32-year-old war worker who fatally slashed his 18-year-old wife because supper was late and then ended his own life with a pocket knife.

Police found the girl, Mrs. Doris Hodges, dead in the kitchen and her husband, Thomas Olin Hodges, an electrical worker, dying in a chair on the front porch of the home of the bride's mother in Drexel Hill.

A cousin of the Hodges, William S. Johnson, a naval petty officer, told detectives a quarrel ensued when the burly Hodges found that the evening meal was not prepared. Johnson declared he tried to stop the enranged man but was driven off by a slash of the knife.

Advance South Of Rostov, Are Held In North

Heavy Air Attacks Accompany German Crossing Of Don; Stalingrad Reported Threatened; Egypt Battle Shifts To Air.

(By Associated Press)

Berlin announced today a 20-mile penetration of the Caucasus, south of Rostov on the Don, on the main rail route into Russia's greatest oil fields, but farther up the Don, in the Tsimlyansk area where the invaders had forced at least two crossings, Moscow said the Germans had been halted.

South of Rostov, said the German high command, German troops stormed into Bataisk after a day of fighting in which a terrific aerial assault broke a path for them.

The Germans, without details, said that farther east along the Don mechanized detachments continued their southward drive. It was there the Russians said they had been checked in the Tsimlyansk area.

To the northeast German and Rumanian infantry divisions, the German communique said, were threatening Stalingrad on a broad front, having reached a Don bend area about 50 miles from their goal. Stalingrad, industrial capital of the lower Volga, lies near an elbow of that river, within 50 miles of the Don bend.

"Northwest of Kalatsch," said the Berlin communique, "tank detachments and mechanized troops are in violent battle with Soviet tank and infantry forces which are trying desperately to hold hilly ground west of the (Don) river."

The location of "Kalatsch" suggested that the Germans meant Kachalino, just east of the Don, some 30 miles northwest of Stalingrad. "Kalatsch" does not appear on non-German maps.

The Germans added that violent air assaults spanned the Don, directed at Volga river and railway communications.

A vast area of steppe land, within the big bend of the Don, was overhung by the smoke of battle through which the German planes and the Red air force, using hundreds of United States bombers and fighters, plunged their bomb loads.

In other sectors of the world conflict, apart from the dominant Russian front, the RAF offensive against Germany regained momentum, marked by further preparatory participation of United States army airmen in actual combat and a powerful overnight assault on Hamburg, while the battle of Egypt shifted almost wholly to the air.

A heavy force of bombers, including some from the U. S. Middle East command, plastered the Axis Libyan supply port of Tobruk again last night, hitting an enemy ship. Long-range RAF fighters attacked barges off Sidi Barrani, Axis-held port in Egypt.

German and Italian troops on the El Alamein line were digging in after last week's minor rectification of positions in favor of the British army of the Nile. Ground action consisted largely of skirmishing and the Italians claimed the British lost some prisoners.

The battle of Russia had reached its gravest stage thus far in 1942.

Berlin claimed capture of the strongly fortified town of Bataisk by forces which engulfed Rostov last week and later

BLASTED: Hamburg Smashed Again In Big-Scale RAF Raid

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The big port of Hamburg, Germany's second largest city and greatest submarine building center, was hit hard last night by the Royal Air Force in its heaviest assault on the Reich since the 1,000-plane bombing of Bremen late last month.

Without disclosing the number of bombers participating in the attack—the sixth on Hamburg this year and the 91st since the war began—a communique announced that 29 of the raiders failed to return.

(On the basis of losses of slightly under five per cent, which the British have reported as the cost of similiar recent heavy raids, this would suggest a striking force of at least 600 planes.)

The communique said a "very strong force" attacked the city of 1,700,000 population whose Blohm and Voss shipyards alone are said to have a capacity to built 25 U-boats at a time, and whose war industries, working day and night, include oil refineries, explosive works and a big seaplane factory.

It was the four attack on Germany in six nights and followed a series of raids on Duisburg.

The raiders were favored by good weather and first reports indicated the assault was highly successful.

The German radio, which said the attack had caused some damage to residences and some civilian casualties, reported 33 British planes were shot down.

In addition to raiding Hamburg, British planes bombed airdromes in the low countries and attacked Nazi shipping in Frisian islands, the air ministry reported.

Last night's raid carried to a climax a week-end of intense

OMINOUS: Pacific Land And Air Activities Stepping Up

(By Associated Press)

Advices from the insular battlefront of the southwest Pacific, facing Australia, pictured that theater today as ominously astir in an upsurge of air activity over the week-end and land action between the Allies and the Japanese in New Guinea.

A simmering crisis in India evoked a sharp British warning to Mohandas K. Gandhi over his projected civil disobedience campaign.

In addition to the battle of China, the fog-bound aerial sparring of the United States against the Japanese lodgements in the Aleutian islands and the long-standing possibility of a Japanese move from Burma against India or from Manchukuo against Russia, the Australian theater now is reassuming a more critical aspect.

Jungle warriors of the Allies, evidently patrols from the Port Moresby outpost on New Guinea's south coast, wormed their way across Papuan peninsula and over the week-end skirmished with Japanese at Awala, about 25 miles inland from Buna.

A small Japanese invasion force had been landed under air attack near Buna last Wednesday, General MacArthur's headquarters

Lauds Company F For Work In Combat Training At Camp

High praise of his command was expressed by Capt. Glenn L. Bierly of Company F, Second Regiment, Ohio State Guard, which returned Sunday from a week's intensive combat training at Camp Hocking.

Highlight of the week was organization of the Company F club, a semi-social unit the first purpose of which will be to acquire khaki uniforms for all members to replace the state-issued blue denim fatigue outfits. Carl Kindt is president and the first social session will be at the armory Tuesday evening following a brief drill and property inspection.

"With practically a green personnel, attending maneuvers for the first time," Capt. Bierly said, "the outfit comported itself in a splendid manner. The terrain was difficult, the accommodations lacking in many respects, and the problems were designed solely to meet wartime conditions."

Since the 1941 encampment more than 15 original members of Co. F have entered the active armed forces. Others have withdrawn to perform defense work.

Ohio's First regiment of infantry and naval militia are in training at Zaleski state park, Hocking county, this week.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — What's going on here? Just this: you and you are being invited right into the Hollywood family.

You know how it is with families. They have their little jokes. Family stuff, that isn't funny to outsiders who don't know the background but is a scream to the inmates.

Coons

The Hollywood family has its little jokes too. It is spreading them on the screen, which is where you and you come in. If you haven't been coming in often, you won't know what they're about. So here's an advance course to facilitate polite laughter at the proper moment:

Two years ago this line wouldn't have been in Ginger Rogers' picture, "The Major and the Minor." Ginger at a school dance is told, "There's an epidemic among the girls—they all think they are Veronica Lake." The camera pans to 20 girls who wear the Lake one-eyed coiffure, or peek-a-boo bang.

The Lake bang is a gag in one of the Lake's own pictures, "I Married a Witch." The film ends with Veronica the mother of a little girl who wears her hair over one eye. In "Star Spangled Rhythm," Bob Hope, as himself, explains he can't keep an engagement: "I've a very important date. Veronica Lake is going to show me her other eye."

You can see that this is all in the family. Intimate. If you can believe the screen, George Raft has been getting pretty confidential too. Playing George Raft in "Broadway" and telling a story about George Raft's good old days on the Main Stem before he got into pictures.

Hope and Bing Crosby practically ask you in to dinner in that "Star Spangled Rhythm." If you don't know how many times they've co-starred, usually as pals and feudists, you may not get it.

To get their family joke in "Rhythm" you have to know that Bing worked an hour in the Hope-Madeleine Carroll film, "My Favorite Blonde." Bing in that picture was the fellow beside the lamp post who gave directions to Hope. Bob rushed away, then paused for a "double take," shook his head and said, "No, it can't be."

In "Rhythm" the boys play themselves — movie stars — just like most of the stars in the cast. Bing started work first. In his first scene Betty Hutton asks his help on a Navy show: "I can get Bob Hope, but what's Hope without Crosby?" Bing, family-style, counters: "Oh, you must have seen 'My Favorite Blonde.' I had to jump in and put him over in that picture, all right." Bing cooked up the line himself.

Came Hope's turn, and Betty Hutton asks Hope's help on the Navy show, saying she already has Crosby. Says Bob: "Oh, that cheese salesman. I used him in my picture, 'My Favorite Blonde.' I like to throw jobs his way when I can. You know those kids of his eat like horses." Bob cooked up the line himself, after hearing about Bing's.

Committee Split On Sales Tax Proposal

WAR DAMPENS INTEREST IN OHIO PRIMARY

Predict Vote In August To Be Less Than Half That of 2 Years Ago.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio appears to be headed for one of the most listless primary elections in its history fifteen days from today.

The war has dampened political enthusiasm. This is true partly because many eligible voters are in the country's service, partly because many are too busy with war work at home to think in partisan terms, and partly because no campaign issue has been of sufficient importance to overshadow the war news.

George M. Neffner, elections expert in the Ohio secretary of state's office, has predicted a primary vote of about 700,000, or less than half that of the primary elections in either 1938 or 1940. This sage statistician is seldom far off in his estimates.

The only statewide contest that has aroused interest is the five-way race for the Democratic nomination for governor. The Democrats, in addition to seeking a strong candidate to oppose Gov. John W. Bricker's third term drive, are engaged in an intra-party contest for control of their state organization.

Three of the five candidates for the Democratic governorship nomination are backed by some faction that wants to control party affairs and patronage.

Former Congressman John McSweeney of Wooster has the blessing of Democratic National Committeeman Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati. A minority faction of the Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) Democratic organization also favors McSweeney.

Clarence H. Knisley of Bainbridge, former state treasurer and industrial commissioner, has been endorsed by former Governor Martin L. Davey.

Walter F. Heer, Columbus business man and Democratic boss, has the support of the majority faction of the Cleveland party organization and several other city and county Democratic leaders. He participated in the recent unsuccessful effort of a group of prominent Democrats to put up Ray T. Miller of Cleveland as the unopposed nominee for governor. Heer never has been on the state ballot before.

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson is running pretty much on his own. But political observers have predicted that the maneuvering in behalf of the other candidates can do him little harm. He is in his sixth year as auditor and was one of the two Democrats elected to state office in 1940.

INLAND SIGNS WITH PROTEST

Steel Firm Says 'Compelled To Do Thing Which It Believes Wrong.'

CHICAGO—Inland Steel company, the last of the four companies of the "Little Steel" industry to accept the recent war labor board decision requiring them to institute union security and grant pay increases, says it was "compelled to do a thing which it believes to be wrong."

Inland notified the WLB yesterday that it would comply with the decision, stating "it had no alternative" and that acceptance was compelled by "threat of confiscation" by the WLB and by a threatened strike of the CIO United Steelworkers of America.

"In the name of patriotism," the company told the board, "Inland is compelled to do a thing which it believes to be wrong, because the alternative would interfere with war production."

The company accepted the order granting workers a wage increase of 44 cents a day to a minimum of 78 cents an hour, but reserved the right of appeal on the union security issue, which provides for a maintenance of union contract clause and a union dues checkoff, and "the right to terminate compliance with said provisions in case of a judicial determination that it is invalid."

O'DANIEL FACES RUN-OFF TEST

Holds Lead In Texas Primary, But Needs Plurality to Win.

DALLAS, Tex.— (INS) —Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel held a long lead today in the race for re-nomination for U. S. senator on the Democratic ticket, but a run-off primary with his closest opponent, former Federal Judge James V. Allred, seemed a virtual certainty.

O'Daniel had 398,439 votes against 269,047 for Allred and 152,227 for former Gov. Dan Moody with votes from 251 of the 254 counties counted, 106 of them complete, in Saturday's primary. Floyd E. Ryan of Houston also polled some 10,000 votes. This gave O'Daniel a 129,392 plurality over Allred, but left him short of a majority which the Texas law requires for nomination.

Mansfielders who complain of long working hours and intense heat should digest this comment from a Mt. Vernon soldier training at Randolph field, Texas, in a letter to his father in Mansfield: "Life-long Texans declare this is the hottest summer in their memory. We are doing 12 to 14 hours a day, Saturdays and Sundays included and no overtime. It is so d—— dry the heat seems more intense than it really is." (The father recalls that native Texans told him the same thing back around 1916 when he was galloping up and down the Rio Grande hunting stray Mexican soldiers and smugglers.)

DIES OF STROKE

Mrs. Reyhar Was Sister of Three Mansfielders.

Mrs. Edward Reyhar, sister of three Mansfielders, died Saturday night in Plymouth after suffering a stroke.

Mrs. Reyhar, who was 67, was the former Florence Elnora Zellner. She and her husband, who survives, had lived in Plymouth with a daughter, Mrs. Ora Fraunfelter, for the past year, and had lived in Ashland for about 20 years previously.

Surviving in addition to her husband and daughter are three brothers, Simon and Frank Zellner of Mansfield; and George of Perrysville; and two sisters, Mrs. Lydia Jordan of Mansfield; and Mrs. Eva Dove of Ashland.

Her body was removed to the Heyl funeral home at Ashland. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Nazarene church in Ashland, of which she was a member, by Rev. C. E. Ryder. Burial will be in Mt. Zion cemetery near Lucas.

SENATE GROUP HOLDS HEARIN ON NEW PLA

Seek Means To Raise T Billion For Nation's War Effort.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The sena finance committee approached first decisions on the new reven program today with its membe ship widely divided on the qu tion of a sales tax.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) c clared that some new form taxation must be found if t treasury's over-all goal of $8,70 000,000 in new revenue is to reached. As approved by t house, the measure now befo the senate committee provides return of only $6,271,000,000.

A survey showed the followi lineup on a sales tax:

Five members, including Ser tors Vandenberg (R-Mich.), Ta (R-Ohio), Byrd (D-Va.), Radcli (D-Md.) and Herring (D-Iow advocated such a levy.

Seven members were willin to vote for it only as a "las resort"—if the treasury insiste on obtaining the full $8,700 000,000 and would agree to im position of the tax. Included i this group were Democrati Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) an Senators George, Connally (D Tex.), Smathers (D-N.J.) Brown (D-Mich.), Guffey (D Pa.), and Davis (R-Pa.)

Two members were flatly o posed, with Senator LaFollet (Prog-Wis.), against it under a circumstances and Senator Cla (D-Mo.) only slightly less e phatic in his stand.

Three members declined to co mit themselves, and four othe were not reached.

Arranging to hold a closed se sion of the committee during t day, George told reporters would ask members to expre their views on recommendatio made by Treasury Secreta Morgenthau for increasing t total approximately $2,500,000,0 over the present figure.

George already has predict that a majority of the committ would be unwilling to boost hous approved income tax rates, e pressing an opinion that any su stantial increases made in the b would have to be in the form some new tax such as a sales withholding levy.

Morgenthau urged the con mittee to add approximately $ 701,000,000 to the house-approv income tax rate structure and boost estate and gift taxes $302,000,000 and excise levies $437,000,000.

NEWSMAN FLIES ON BOMBER IN RAID ON KISKA

Gives Graphic Account of Air Attack on Japanese Outpost.

I looked at my watch. Two-forty-three p. m. It said.

The next hour and ten minutes were busy but somehow your hands, having nothing else to do, took notes on this odd transaction in death. It went about like this:

2:45—The navigator left his charts when we started and now crouches lovingly over his machine-gun in the tear-drop glass nose we occupy. He squats suddenly and twists the gun in its swivel.

"Here he comes," he says quietly. Out there against the white cloud rack a tiny black speck moves. It moves fast, growing larger.

2:46—We hold our course and on either flank our other planes spread out, climb above or drop below into attack formation.

2:47—The speck is nearer but something's got into him. He isn't attacking and it requires a moment of incredulous amazement to realize what he is doing He's over there by himself—stunting. It seems like a silly way to fight. The major offered an explanation for the Jap's odd antics "The guy's smart," the major said. "He knows his pals down there can hear his motor but they can't see him through the soup. They'll hear that engine howl and they'll think what a hell of a fight he's putting up Makes a hero of him before he starts to fight."

2:50—The peak lies below now and the Jap is out of sight. There's a glimpse of sea northward but the bay where the Jap ships lie, if they're still here, is solidly covered. There's the fighter again, higher than us and closer before. We're still climbing and the altimeter beside the chart table says 10,000 feet, nearly two miles.

2:55—He vanished again in the murk but now he is out and he's gone, into another of his silly aerial dances He's still half a mile off but you feel as big as a house and twice as visible out here in the glass nose. You wish you had something to crawl behind.

3.00—The top turret is firing over our heads. We can't see what the gunner's shooting at but it must be our playfellow in the fighter. The firing stops suddenly, and the Jap crosses in front of us sliding into the soup He must have attacked but we seem to be all right.

3:02—He's coming in again, from the front this time. He's diving dead toward us and there's smoke spurting from the front of his machine. You realize suddenly, with an odd feeling of shock, that he's shooting at us.

The navigator is scrunched over his gun firing back and the pilot lifts the nose a little so the bottom turret can get at him too. There's a hellish racket in your ears. The fighter breaks his run suddenly and dives, flirting out of sight into a cloud. The young navigator turns and grins, lopsidedly. "Missed him, damnit," he says.

3:05—We've been circling steady and our playmate is out of sight for the moment. Now the skipper calls the bombardier on the interphone. We're going down to have a look, he says, before we drop our bombs. We've got to see what's under that fog. This isn't the solid stuff we blew through coming out. This lies over the island in over-lapping layers. We head for the next hole and go rocketing down.

3:06—The upper turret fires a quick burst. That little man must be back. But we can't see him.

3:08—We're still going down, and the top turret fires again. He must be attacking each time we come in the clear.

3.12—He appears ahead, momentarily, diving into a cloud and the navigator fires quickly. The Jap rolls over and vanishes, his wings flashing in the sun.

3:15—Our long glide has carried us down to the solid soup and we're diving through. We're now and below us are broken clouds over Kiska bay. We're below the mountain now.

3:17—He's here again. The upper turret opened on him and now he's in front coming head on. He's closer now and the smoke puffing from his plane is laced with white streaks of tracer coming our way.

3.22—He began an attack up through a cloud but he didn't press it home. We're down to 3,200 feet and except for bits of fluff we have a clear view of the harbor.

We cruise back and forth in figure eights across the harbor. The anti-aircraft should be coming up but it doesn't. Occasionally we see our playmate skipping out of one cloud or rolling into another. The drifting clouds won't let us get a good look at our work but we can see the upended hulk of the transport bombed and sunk by this plane three days ago.

There's another ship in there. We had a glimpse of it, anchored near the lagoon but we can't get at it this low and we won't be able to see it if we go higher. We can't see the tent village but we know it's there and probably, the navigator says, we'll bomb that on a bearing from the peak.

3:34—We've started up again through the murk. The navigator says we're going to bomb and the bombardier is fiddling with the bombsight and checking. Whatever destruction we are going to accomplish will be starting soon now. Our friend has vanished and we cling to an illogical hope that one of those bursts got him.

You yell at the navigator, asking how high we'll go to drop. He holds up one hand, the fingers spread. Five thousand feet.

3:40—We're up in the clear again and another fortress is on our flank. We've come over the mountain and have begun our bombing run.

We must fly this course, speed, exact level without the slightest deviation until the bombs are gone. Three little red lights in the cockpit will warn him if he starts to waver but he must fly the plane himself. The bombardier bends over his work. He wears the intent look of an artist at work, odd on his rocky unshaven face.

3:44—The bomb doors are open behind us. We're coming on the target and I'm breathing quickly, wondering what terror and death are about to turn loose.

3.44½—The bombardier's fingers move slightly on the switch. We hear a series of faint clicks. "Bombs on the way," the navigator says and grins I haven't felt anything and I try to look below and back, wondering if I can see them fall I can't. It's as simple as that. From this height we can't even hear them hit above the motors' constant yell. Nor can we see what they accomplish under the mist.

3.46—We're in a circling dive, heaving down under the blanket of soup again for the long run home. It's almost over, but not quite. The fighter breaks out of a cloud at the right and swings in front of us for one more try. Our guns open up momentarily and we see the darting white streaks of his tracer again and then he's gone.

3:50—The major asks the navigator for the homeward compass setting and the navigator reluctantly gives up his gun and turns to the charts. We're heading home. We're not there yet. There are plenty of dangerous miles ahead, but we're on our way.

new industry, but if we are too late, let's start something that will give Mansfield industries a lift. Go out and fight for war contracts. Keep those industries running so Marion and these other cities won't be able to draw people away from here if, and when, a manpower draft starts."

The councilman went on to say that "I want it understood that first, if we can, let's get an industry that will be lasting after the war If we can't let's get something that will make this city progress I think it would be a good idea to go after plastics plants."

Kyle said he planned to introduce his resolution to council at its next meeting scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 4.

GERMANS CLAIM 20-MILE GAIN INTO CAUCASUS

Russians Report They Check Advance to North; Air War Flares In Egypt.

spanned the Don estuary south and east of Rostov.

The main railway and pipeline which parallel the Caucasus mountain range, bisecting the Caucasus southeastward to Baku, on the Caspian, pass through Bataisk.

There was no confirmation from Moscow for this or the older claim by the Nazis that Rostov had been taken.

Officially, the Russians announced merely that the battle for the Caucasus continued through the night at Voronezh, 300 miles north of Rostov, the northern flank of the Germans' eastward and southern offensive, and in the vicinity of Rostov, Novocherkassk and Tsimlyansk.

Novocherkassk lies 20 miles northeast of Rostov and Tsimlyanks, on the north bank of the Don, 120 airline miles northeast of Rostov. The Germans already have claimed the capture of Novocherkassk as well as Rostov.

Waves of tanks and motorized infantry, supported by mobile artillery and bomber squadrons, beat down upon the Russians in both the Rostov and Tsimlyansk areas. By Russian reports, the Tsimlyansk pressure was the greater for it was only there that the defenders conceded footholds on the south bank of the strategic waterline.

"In the Tsimlyansk area stubborn fighting for (additional) crossings is in progress," said the Moscow communique. "The Germans are trying to force the river Don simultaneously in several places . . . In one sector a big tank battle is in progress. . . . Our men have pinned down numerically superior forces and prevented them from advancing."

The communique said that fierce combat continued on the outskirts of Rostov but that in one sector the enemy had broken into "the heart of our defenses." Fifty German tanks were reported destroyed in the Rostov and Tsimlyansk zones.

In the Voronezh fighting the Russians still were attacking, and in a single sector killed about 1,000 Germans in one day and downed three planes with rifle fire, the Moscow communique stated.

The Russians claimed, however, that an important height had been occupied in the Bryansk region, northwest of Voronezh and southwest of Moscow, with a mechanized regiment routed, leaving 1,250 dead, the remnant of 300 men as prisoners and 20 disabled tanks.

Russian Battle Called 'Crucial'

LONDON — (AP) — British military and political circles were gravely concerned today over the course of the Russian fighting and described the current battle as "the most important yet fought," both from a military and an economic point of view.

These sources, whose names were not permitted to be published, described the German assaults in the Tsimlyansk region as the "crucial battle" for southern Russia.

They said the danger that there would not be enough food saved for the Russian people had increased in the last few days. They pointed out that if the Germans could establish and hold bridgeheads over the Don at Tsimlyansk they would be less than 200 miles from the oil convoys on the Volga and oil installations at Maikop.

The lands just conquered or now threatened by the German drive in some parts are richer than the Ukraine and are almost as extensive, it was said.

Claim British Repulsed In Egypt

ROME — (By official Italian wireless)—(INS)—Italian bombing raids on British lines and repulse of a new British attack on the desert front west of El Alamein were claimed today by the Italian high command.

An enemy raid on Tobruk was said to have caused only slight damage and "a few" casualties.

(American heavy bombers raided Tobruk last night and left it in flames.)

One enemy plane was shot down by anti-aircraft fire, it was claimed.

U. S. Bombers Raid Axis Base In Libya

WITH A UNITED STATES BOMBER GROUP, Somewhere In Egypt—(Delayed)—(AP)—Early today the first of a task force of American bombers returned to this base to report highly successful raids over enemy territory last night. (United States heavy bombers took a prominent part in a successful raid Saturday night on Tobruk, main supply port in eastern Libya.)

Ten bombers manned by seventy Americans carried out the mission, and every man and machine returned.

They had been assigned to specific targets, and their reports of where they had deposited their bombs soon filled the interrogating officers' maps with dots, crosses and lines.

The first to return could not observe the results of their work. Clouds had obscured their vision, and anti-aircraft artillery came so close and pursued them so persistently it wasn't wise to loiter. But fliers returning later were able to report what earlier planes had accomplished.

"Man, oh man," exclaimed the rear gunner of the fourth plane to rumble to a stop, "just what I always wanted to see! Must have been a munitions dump, or gasoline. Oh boy, what an explosion!"

PRESS SEARCH

Police Continue Hunt For Clerk Who Disappeared With $1,300.

YOUNGSTOWN —(INS)— Police today continued their search for Lawrence Smith, a messenger for the Kline department store, who disappeared last Friday with $1,300 of store funds.

Store Manager Jack Rapaport reported to police that Miss Inabell Sweeney, cashier, gave the money to Smith Friday afternoon to be deposited at the City Trust Savings bank, where Smith failed to show up.

also reported a minor clash between Allied outpost forces and Japanese recently at Mubo, near Salamaua, 150 miles northwest of Buna, where 60 of the enemy died in a patrol attack on the Allied-held village.

An Allied commando swoop early this month on Salamaua killed a like number of the foe. The Allied air force continued to pound Japanese troops in the Buna area, at Gona Mission, and also raided Kieta, on Bougainville island, in the Solomons, and Buka and Sohana islands, in the Buka passage, to the north.

Japanese airmen, over the weekend, made their most southerly penetration thus far with a Saturday night raid on Townsville, on Australia's northeast coast. No serious damage was reported.

Meanwhile the Australian government voiced belief that enemy agents, possibly landed from submarines in the manner of an ill-starred German sabotage effort against the United States, were operating in Australia, tipping the Japanese on secret military movements.

The disobedience plan of India's foremost Nationalist leader and exponent of immediate independence from Britain, Gandhi, inspired a declaration yesterday by Sir Stafford Cripps that the United Nations could not permit interference with the war effort.

"We cannot allow the actions of a visionary, however distinguished in the fight for freedom in the past, to thwart the United Nations drive for victory in the east," Cripps said in a broadcast especially directed to the United States.

The All-India congress party is expected to approve Gandhi's program on Aug. 7.

Walter Kappe, 37, formerly of Cincinnati, who was chief organizer of Hitler movements, including friends of new Germany which gave birth to the German-American Bund, in this country. He is described as the man who was to be the "brains" of the huge sabotage ring which the German high command hoped to establish here, with headquarters in Chicago.

Joseph Schmidt, German-born former resident of Province of Alberta, Canada, who was known to be at Lorient, France, in May, ostensibly awaiting orders for his dispatch to this country by submarine.

Rheinhold Rudolf Barth, former draftsman with the Long Island railroad, who was to concentrate on sabotage of railroads and railroad equipment once he landed here. He was an instructor in methods of sabotaging railroads at the Berlin school.

While training for any sabotage mission which Adolf Hitler might map out for them, the three "wanted" saboteurs were closely associated with those now on trial. It was assumed that they might try to enter this country by submarine.

Believe Nazis Have Caribbean Base

A FLORIDA PORT—(INS)—The possibility that Nazi submarines may be replenishing their supplies of torpedoes from a Caribbean land base was advanced today by an American seaman who spent four days as a prisoner in a torpedo tube compartment of an enemy underseas raider.

The seaman, Archie Gibbs, 36, of Roscoe, Tex., had two vessels torpedoed from under him before he was scooped out of the sea by a German submarine and later set free and told to swim to a small fishing craft.

Although Gibbs was not permitted to see the transfer of five torpedoes to the Nazi underseas craft on which he was a prisoner, he said he was sure the submarine was in port at the time.

"I could plainly feel the groundswell as if we were in port," Gibbs said on being landed at this Florida port. "There wasn't any bumping up against us as of another vessel at sea.

"Of course the torpedoes could have been floated a short distance from another ship, but my guess is that, if so, we were pretty near land when it happened."

GOAL SET

WPB Establishes Quota In New Salvage Drive.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The war production board today established a goal of 17,000,000 tons of scrap iron and steel to be collected during the six months ending Dec. 31, under its national salvage program.

The WPB conservation division reported that this is "the minimum amount of scrap necessary to charge furnaces to capacity and to provide sufficient stock piles to insure full time operations throughout the winter months."

The industry now has approximately 3,000,000 tons of scrap on hand, or one month's supply at current production rates, WPB said.

aerial activity, which was marked by the first appearance of United States army fighter pilots over the European continent.

A special communique issued by Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of U. S. army air forces in the European theater, disclosed that seven American fliers accompanied by RAF fighter squadrons in a series of daylight sweeps over northern France yesterday, during which nine of German's vaunted new Focke-Wulff fighters were shot out of the skies.

The Allies lost three planes, including one of those piloted by the Americans.

Five of the German planes were reported shot down. The Americans were not credited officially with shooting down any of the Nazis.

Spaatz's communique was the second on U. S. air force operations in Europe. The first disclosed that U. S. army bomber pilots had made their debut in action in this theater by participating in raids on German-occupied territory July 4.

German raiders, striking at England out of the low clouds of the early morning, bombed 23 areas, including one within 50 miles of London.

Two brief daylight alerts were sounded in the capital, and for the first time in many months workbound residents of inland communities saw bombers marked with the black cross sweep low to the attack, then dodge back into the clouds with aircraft fire around them and British fighters roaring in pursuit.

The report of Coroner L. B. McCullough, which was taken by deposition, was submitted to the jury this morning by Acting Prosecutor John C. O'Donnell. Among the first witnesses called by the state was E. C. Fuller, identification officer for the Mansfield police department, who made pictures at the scene of the slaying.

Less than a dozen spectators were on hand when the trial opened this morning, but as it progressed more filed into the courtroom. Most of the spectators were colored acquaintances of the defendant.

CHAPTER XII

As Gordon unpacked, the jangling phone brought him back from mental wanderings.

A rich and racy voice sang out, "Hi-ya, Brad—this is the Red Hot mama of all outdoors. Whaddaya know, and why?"

"Cora! Where are you? Thought you were on your way to Chicago!"

"I'm just leaving. I'm sore as a boil. Say, I've been calling all afternoon. Where've you been?"

"Busy working, what else?" answered Gordon. "What did you do oversleep your train? How are you feeling after your last round-up?"

"Still fizzling with bubbly water, and filled with butterflies. Two Chinamen are skipping rope in my stomach, and that is only half of it," she moaned.

Gordon laughed. "And your Clifford's the same?"

"No, he's mad as a runner-up We cracked up last night in his car after we skipped the club. Cliff's at Willoughby hospital." She recounted the details for Gordon—the left turn, the crash. She heaped abuse on herself for letting him drive the car. "It's that sore hand of his that did it. He'll be at the hospital about a week until the stitches set themselves and his nerves untangle. I've got to play my two weeks at the Long Tail club in Chi; got to get some folding money."

"But he'll be ripping mad if you leave him alone, won't he?"

"Got to get some money. Clifford is broke, and I have to chow and pay the landlord when he doesn't," she said.

"We'll both be mighty lonesome without you," said Gordon.

"Brad, do me a favor. Take Cliff cigarets and read the newspapers to him. Skip the page on bombings and suicides. You know what I mean. Keep him company. Will you?"

"Sure, Cora, anything you say. Glad to oblige."

"Thanks, Brad, I knew I could count on you. I won't forget it. I'll tell him you'll be around to see him."

Then her voice bade him goodbye, and he hung up the receiver. He sat back on the bed, lips pursed, fingers picking noiselessly at the pillow. He knew this was the perfect chance—to get better acquainted with Morley, while Cora was gone. The only obstacle to that was the possibility of running into Oliver.

Early the next day, immediately after his arrival at the landing field, Alvin Oliver presented himself at the hospital office and asked the number of Morley's room.

"Hello, trouble," grunted Morley from his bed when he saw Oliver enter his room, "What brings you to Denver? Are you sick?"

"I'm all right, Clifford. But who laid you out?"

"There's always a female wrecking the plans of men—and mice." He held out his left hand "Hand closest to my heart, crony. What's so important that you can't telephone it?"

"First, why the left hand? What happened?"

"Blackie and I were drilling," answered Morley. "We hit rotten quartz; but it looked good, so I drilled for a one-stick blast to see what was underneath. The bit nicked me and we didn't open the ore vein, either, if it was there."

"Nothing serious?" asked Oliver looking at Morley's bandaged hand.

"No, of course not! Just the damn thing won't heal up!"

"Do the prospects at the mine look any better?" asked Oliver.

"Not a bit better, but if you have fifty thousand dollars to hand me, I'd be able to give you a more sugary answer. We need more men, better drills, more pumps, more tunnelling. You can't find a lost vein with peanuts!"

Oliver licked his upper lip. "That's how I figured it out too. That's the reason I came West. Your little ex-wife Audrey is finished with her new husband. They're washed up."

"I've always blamed you for letting her go to Sun Valley and marry him!" Morley stared at Oliver and Oliver stared back. For a few seconds neither of the men spoke. Morley turned over Oliver's information in his mind. There was nothing emotional about Morley. He had a cold, intellectual mind that could cover what he was thinking about.

"So Audrey has chilled? Didn't take her long, did it?" He laughed a strident disagreeable laugh. "She doesn't love him?"

"Of course not, governor!" Oliver leaned forward excitedly. "She never did. There's only one man for her, and only one, that's you!"

Morley looked across the room into the mirror on the bureau opposite his bed, approved of himself, smiled. "But I heard that this fellow Blake was a straight shooter; serious and intelligent," he remarked with assurance.

"Too intelligent. As much chance with Audrey as a snowball in hell. He found his marriage as cold as potato salad. And in the goodness of my heart I showed him what made it so cold. One night your portrait, Clifford, that's still hanging over the mantelpiece in the living room, fell down and smashed, and woke them up."

"How did that happen?" Morley's voice had a harsh, frayed quality. "I had cut more than halfway through the cord that held it. Ravelled it, to make it look like an accident. Audrey felt very bad about it. The picture looked like it should be thrown away. The canvas caught the back of a chair. And a glass bowl put a hole right through your face."

"She always liked that portrait of me, didn't she?"

"Yes, she was stuck on it When you and she first broke up, she used to sit looking at it for hours. And governor, it was just as I thought. The morning after the accident, she started out first thing to have it fixed up. And when it was all mended, she hung it right back where it was!"

"Blake didn't like that I guess?"

"Not much he didn't! What husband wants a handsome man like you on the wall looking at him while he's making love to his wife?"

Morley chuckled unpleasantly and nodded approval.

"Boris almost bit his leg off, and your chestnut gelding heaved him overboard."

Morley had looked dog tired; his skin had an unhealthy pallor, his eyes swollen and puffed. He gave the impression of being utterly fatigued, but he brightened now. He liked power over animals and people, and Oliver knew it.

Oliver continued. "I paid a smart little girl I know who has more brains than good manners to call up Audrey on the telephone and pretend she was Blake's girl. I made the kid ring Audrey's private wire. I was standing right next to the kid when she did it and kept telling her what to say. The kid gave Audrey a fine mouthful."

"You've learned to copy more than my signature, Alvin; you're even using my head."

"When Blake came home that night Audrey told him what she thought of him for handing out her private telephone number to his girl friend. Blake denied he'd done it, but she didn't believe him, and there was a row"

It was quite evident that Morley was pleased.

Oliver gurgled with the enchantment of Morley's approval. "I've left the best for the last. I wrote Blake an anonymous letter and told him that he could easily find out for himself just why he was sleeping alone so much. All he had to do was read some love letters that Audrey had hidden away in a drawer. I told him where the drawer was and how to open it"

"Whose love letters?" Morley turned on him abruptly, irritated

"Yours, governor, of course, yours!"

Morley relaxed, closed his eyes. "Did Blake read them?" he asked calmly.

"Yes. The lot. I must say, Boss, you sure can write hot stuff."

"I am delighted that you approve of my literary efforts as much as I approve of yours."

"The rest was easy. After that I knifed Blake every chance I got by mentioning your name. He and Audrey began to rub against each other like sand paper. He soon got wise he had come to the wrong house."

"Nothing better than an ex-husband leaving his wife a few remembrances of himself." Morley lapsed into bored silence.

A FAIR DEAL FOR EVERY PATRON

Patrons have found at the Finefrock Funeral Home the two important things necessary to satisfactory funeral service.

First—and never to be overlooked—is personal understanding service, with equipment to meet any requirement.

Second—and equally important—every patron gets full value for the money regardless of the amount they spend.

These are probably the reasons why the families who have used our service seldom consider any other.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JULY 27, 1942.

Hospitality to alien enemies is being dispensed with for the duration.

Discipline is already showing its effect in the women's army as a recent WAAC picture showed seven listening while one talked.

Reminder: This war is being fought to preserve a government "of the people, by the people, for the people"—not a government of pressure groups, by pressure groups, for pressure groups.

Silver Held To Fictitious Price

BECAUSE a congressional "silver bloc," primarily interested in six silver producing states, has succeeded in holding domestic-mined silver at the fictitious price of 71.11 cents an ounce—as against a market price of 35 cents an ounce for "foreign silver"—this plentiful and badly needed metal is being withheld from many of the essential industrial uses to which it might otherwise be put.

The United States treasury, which is obligated to buy newly-mined domestic silver at more than double a legitimate market price, now has a fabulous hoard of 3,300,000,000 ounces (100,000 tons) stored in vaults near West Point, N. Y.

Until needs of war industries brought restrictions on industrial use of "foreign silver," procurable from Mexico at around 35 cents an ounce, imported silver was ample for use by the arts and industries.

Silver, however, is the chief substitute for copper, which has been under complete allocation since last April, and the so-called "foreign silver" is going so largely into war industries that use of silver for other purposes has been made almost impossible.

There had been hope that some small part of the stored silver, which is serving no good purpose in West Point vaults, might be "loaned" for industrial uses, to be replaced later, but this plan has been ruled impractical.

This whole silver situation seems to provide an excellent example of the way in which national interests can be submerged by an aggressive congressional bloc in order to give special benefits to a comparatively few people.

What Must Be Done Can Be Done

THE UNITED FRUIT COMPANY is growing and encouraging on South and Central American plantations the planting of products for which in the past the United States has been dependent on the Far East, such as rubber, hemp and quinine.

With bananas rotting in Central America this year for lack of shipping, the one-crop farmer is having a hard time, whereas the one who has planted crops essential to the war effort will have something to sell which he can market.

The company announces that it is building an agricultural school in Honduras which will be open to students from Central America. It has been experimenting with these more varied crops for some time. The announcement states that "once this movement is under way it will result in a higher standard of living for the countries interested and a greatly increased market for farmer, manufacturer and business man."

Time for Another Sugar Dole

NOW it's the No. 6 sugar ration coupon that gets into action, effective today and continuing through Saturday, August 22. Each No. 6 coupon entitles you to buy two pounds of sugar—to cover the four weeks period—and the No. 7 coupon, if not already used, still permits purchase of the two pounds "bonus."

Then soon will come along the next special registration, for fall canning allotment, and this will be at precinct voting places in cities, villages and townships, instead of at school houses, with regular precinct workers in charge, plus such volunteers as may be needed to facilitate registration.

There's still plenty of sugar stored and in process of production to meet all reasonable needs, without rationing, but no inclination has yet been shown by Washington authorities to admit that a mistake was made or to abandon rationing of sugar for home use.

Car Shortage Revives 'Tinkering'

A GENERATION of boys who learned about motor cars by tinkering with the old Model-T Ford may find satisfaction now in the operations performed by their sons.

A period has elapsed in which American motor cars improved so greatly that there wasn't much to do about them. They would run for an astonishingly long time without developing the old-fashioned troubles that created a nation of expert mechanics. For years and years now, about all that a motorist has had to do was to give his car a little gas or oil or grease or water once in a while.

But now, with the disappearance of automobiles from the market, and no assurance of new ones for several years, a new era opens. It becomes patriotic to tinker again with the family car, to clean and pamper and cherish it and safeguard it against mishaps—and even to prolong its life-expectation period by moderate driving speed.

Youthful Leisure Shrinks

THE COLLEGES, like the factories, are speeding up production. Summer vacations disappear and they operate on a year-round basis. Luxury or culture courses are kicked out, as learning strips for action. There is little left of athletics. Students will be graduated sooner and gain a year or more in entering army or civilian life.

This tightening up is not found merely in the colleges. High schools, too, will have fewer frills from now on, and more concentration on essentials.

It is a harder, tougher, sterner world that today's boys and girls are entering. How much harder it will become is something nobody knows. But certainly with the perils now to overcome, the winning of the war to save civilization, the safeguards that must be established, and the restoration of a wrecked world, it is going to be a job to keep this rising generation busy for a long, long time.

Voters in some parts of the country have adopted the interesting pastime of checking the record to learn what their congressman did before he became a congressman.

WPB has banned making any more merry-go-rounds—and while the rubber debate is going on the shortage will scarcely be noticed.

Lease-lend seems to have changed to give-send.

THE GREAT RUSSIAN WAR SYMPHONY

Soldier Romances Bring Problems

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

TARIFF protection is an issue involved in our army order forbidding American soldiers, on expeditionary duty in foreign fields (like Ireland, Iceland, Australia and maybe in additional areas to come) from wedding native girls without the indorsement of the Yankee bridegroom's commanding officer in the case of each set of nuptials.

Immigration complications are threatened, too.

It's more or less difficult, under present legislation, for an alien, of either sex, to break into the United States as a permanent resident. If some damsel's admitted, in one way or another, and marries one of our local kids, there's no chance that she'll be deported in normal times. Or, if one of our lads goes abroad in his individual capacity, in peace's midst, and contracts matrimony, there's no chance that his partner'll be denied the privilege of accompanying him on his return into his home country.

The coming situation, though, looks like a whole swarm of 'em."

Citizens.

It'll attract attention. Will or won't these girls from overseas be American citizens, on the strength of their foreign marriages to Americans? It's been all right to regard these cases hitherto as rare exceptions—too few to be worried about. To have 'em land in shiploads may be more puzzling to immigration authorities.

Moreover—

How about the fiancees of doughboys who respect their commanding officers and don't get married, but do agree with their overseas sweethearts to follow 'em back to the U. S. A. subsequently and then marry 'em? Will those girls rate as citizens or will they be alien ineligibles under immigration regulations? It'll be a nice situation (won't it?) if an inductee and an Irish or an Icelandic or an Australian girl get engaged to be married as soon as the war's over, and then, after the inductee is home again, his beloved can't get into the country for the ceremony.

Besides, suppose a Yankee inductee has butted, in the course of hostilities, into some Axis country. Perhaps he'll have infiltrated into Germany or one of the other Axis lands.

There are nice German girls, too.

Perhaps the inductee'll have formed an affection for 'em. Will they be barred? Why, dash-ding it (I've got generations-back German relatives)—as 'good Americans as ever dated from Carl Schurz's time! Are their descendants' stung also?

It Was Different.

I date to a time when we had had a good many aliens coming into the United States.

I never liked the idea of excluding Orientals arbitrarily—especially not Japanese (objectionable as they may seem now) or Chinese (though now they're popular), but I always thought the right kind of Europeans were desirable. If not, how about our Africans? We'd have a heck of a time doing without 'em. We assimilated 'em so gradually that we don't recognize it, but what would we do otherwise?

Well, these girls from overseas may provide a problem.

Man About Manhattan

Surprised Author

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Esther Forbes does not take after the ancestor who was convicted as a witch and who conveniently died in Cambridge jail before they got around to burning her.

Miss Forbes is the one who wrote "Paul Revere and the World He Lived In." This is perhaps the summer's big book, a Book-of-the-Month choice, and a labor of love. Miss Forbes wrote it because she got tangled up in it—she had put in many months on a novel of the period before she changed her mind and started "Paul Revere."

SHE didn't think the book would make money, and when her dignified Boston publishers (Houghton Mifflin) wrote her they would spend $10,000 on advertising she went to bed with a headache. She used to work for them, and thought they'd lost their heads.

Then the sages of the Book-of-the-Month Club met. Miss Forbes knew they were meeting, and instead of driving from her Worcester, Mass., home to Harvard (also Massachusetts) to get some apples, she pretended she was tired and took to bed. She was afraid to confess that she was waiting for a call.

"The call came, and because I knew the switchboard operator in my publisher's office I could tell I was lucky. Then I heard the receiver go up in the editor's office, and a lot of giggles. Then they told me.

"I found out later that the giggles came out of a bottle of liquor that had been hurriedly imported. I couldn't find anybody to tell the news to, so I took a good hot bath."

"Paul Revere" is a good-humored, careful, social history of Boston and New England before, during and after the Revolution—as well as a biography of the silversmith, engraver, bell caster, printer of currency, expert in gunpowder, maker of false teeth and the man who rode the Larkin horse down the Concord road.

MOST difficult thing, aside from the meticulous research, was being fair to Sam Adams in the book. Adams is an ancestor of Miss Forbes, but she doesn't approve of everything he did.

Most helpful thing was the fact that her mother, more than 80 years old, loves research. Mrs. Forbes put in many 10-hour days sleuthing through town records, diaries and such. She also is a writer—she wrote a book on New England gravestones, and has catalogued more than 2,000 New England diaries written before 1800.

Humor is a Forbes stand-by. Some 15 years ago the Book-of-the-Month Club, then a very young organization, accepted "O Genteel Lady," her first published novel. In those days the club liked to bind its books in imitation leather. There was something wrong with the stuff, however, and it was more than sticky—it smelled.

Gleefully, Miss Forbes reports, "They called it the 'Best Smeller of the Month.'"

Looking Back

It was believed that settlements were near in "paralyzing" railroad strike and miners' strike.

J. F. Beemiller and family moved to Lancaster, where he was to become superintendent of Fairfield county schools.

John J. Lentz, of Columbus, candidate for Democratic nomination as U. S. senator, spoke in Central park.

Three-year-old Mansfield boy, playing with revolver, injured himself and his mother.

Birthday surprise party was given for Miss Barbara Hautz at home of Miss Minnie Klein, 40 Cedar street.

TODAY IN HISTORY

This date in 1866 marked the completion of the Atlantic cable joining Trinity Bay, Newfoundland, with the Irish coast. Cyrus W. Field, instigator of the work, was hailed as a "modern Columbus" and Queen Victoria regretted that the rejection of all titles of nobility by the United States prevented her from conferring knighthood upon him.

Health And Diet

New Treatment For Infantile Paralysis.

—By DR. CLENDENING

ABOUT two years ago Miss Elizabeth Kenney of Brisbane, Australia, came to America to present her method of treating infantile paralysis. The idea behind the method, as pointed out in this column several times, was early attention to muscle spasm, first by the use of moist heat and then by movements of the affected muscles. The principle point of departure between this method and the ones employed by most orthopedic surgeons heretofore is in the abandonment of splints and casts in the early stage.

Miss Kenny has been working in the United States for two years in recognized clinics and the reports of her work have just been published. The report states that the patients treated have all made a far more satisfactory recovery than they would have made by any previously known method. No formities have occurred in spite of the complete omission of splining.

Reduces Deformities.

It is unfortunate that the newspaper reports to the public have so often used the word "cure" in relation to the Kenny treatments. It is not a cure in the sense that it is guaranteed to prevent any possible paralysis following a severe case of infantile paralysis. What it does do is to reduce the deformities, which are a sequel of the disease, to a minimum.

In order to explain what is meant by spasms, it must be remembered that every part of the body, every joint, has two sets of muscles which work antagonistically. For instance, you have a set of muscles which raise your wrist and one which pull it down. Now if in an attack of infantile paralysis one of these sets of muscles is paralyzed, the other will, by going into spasm, pull the joint awry and perhaps result in a permanent paralysis.

Miss Kenny's idea is to calm these muscles down, first by the application of moist heat and then by moving the muscles gently, try to restore as much natural balance as possible. No one should expect, even with this treatment, that every case will come out without any paralysis at all.

I know that a great many orthopedic surgeons are visiting the Kenny clinic at the present time in order to see for themselves the methods employed and the effects of treatment. All that I have talked to agree that it is an enormous advance in the prevention of atrophy, deformity of muscles, the rapidity of recovery and the extent of recovery.

Daily Bible Thought

Ability, Not Politics, Needed to Win the War, Warning Is Given

Editor's Note: Participation of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the New York Democratic factional fight over choice of a nominee for governor has become a subject of such widespread discussion, and dissatisfaction, that its possible effect on the national war program should be seriously considered, not only by Mr. Roosevelt himself but by all who are letting partisan politics influence their administrative activities. In order to do this fairly it is necessary to disassociate Mr. Roosevelt, as a New York politician, from President Roosevelt, head of this government and commander in chief of the nation's military forces.

This is well done in the following copyrighted article by Robert Moses in the Washington Post, which the News-Journal has received permission to re-print.

IF WE AMERICANS are to preserve democracy, we must have either a completely national administration with politics, personalities and New Deal objectives shelved for the duration of the war, or a loyal opposition—loyal, that is, to the Republic for which the President stands. The critics must be invited into the government if they have anything to contribute toward winning the war, or they must be given an honorable and recognized place in opposition.

The President's patriotism, far-sightedness in foreign affairs, devotion to duty and the heavy burdens of his office command the support and sympathy of all but bigots who are determined to see no good in him. But his weaknesses have become the handicaps of his party and of his country as well. They include partisanship, personal government, narrowness toward opponents, unwillingness to establish a truly national government which will unify the people for war, and finally, reluctance to select the best assistants and delegate authority to them, and hesitancy in dismissing those who fail.

Honest Questions.

Let me give some illustrations of these weaknesses—first of all the matter of partisanship. An administration spokesman delivered a speech recently in which all critics were neatly assigned to their proper circles in the New Deal Inferno and roasted, with the most ardent fagots, as enemies of the country.

There are irresponsible and sinister snipers in these United States, some undoubtedly in the pay of our enemies, but we may well ask whether their number has not been exaggerated by federal propagandists, who insinuate that every man who criticizes the government is a rat, that every honest question directed at domesti administrative faults was framed in Berlin or Tokyo. If the English had suppressed the critics of their recent inept ministries, there would be no England today.

Personal vindictiveness is a weakness of the administration. Immediately after the declaration of war, an important newspaper publisher, who had been a bitter isolationist, offered his services in any capacity to the army. He had been an artillery captain in the last war, admitted he was old for fighting, but wanted to join up anywhere, lock, stock and barrel. He was a considerable personage, and the war department arranged for him to see the president—who was an old acquaintance. The president kept this man standing for half an hour with his hat in his hand, and delivered a scolding about the attitude of the publisher and his family.

Within His Rights.

No doubt his editorials had hindered the president's defense effort. Personally I thought they were often illogical, ill-timed and intemperate, but this publisher had a right to say his say about our entry into the war in a country boasting a free press and in what was at least technically a time of peace.

Would President Lincoln have treated a former opponent in this way, or would he have overlooked stale controversies in order to achieve unity in a tremendous crisis? Lincoln was smart as well as forgiving. He even stood for men like Stanton in the cabinet. He would have known better than to lecture and insult a powerful and sensitive critic who came to make his peace in the name of patriotism. This partisan hostility toward those who have criticized the New Deal has run like some venomous thing through the whole administration and poisoned many without whose help the war probably cannot be won.

The strongest isolationists might from the beginning have been so absorbed in the defense effort that they would have had no time for obstruction. You don't hear a gick or a gack out of Ford and Girdler now. They are too busy making the things we need. Some of the administration's best friends have admitted that if it can restrain its impulse to divide responsibilty, and can keep its hand off one-man bosses, all records for tanks, planes, guns and other weapons will be smashed.

Able Men Needed.

We have established priorities for everything but our first-class administrative talent. There is only a limited amount of it in any country, and ours is no exception. Every bit of human ability is required to win the war, but there has been little realization of this fact in Washington. That queer amalgam of native ability, experience, judgment and leadership which makes an executive is natural, not synthetic. It isn't turned out in New Deal laboratories. You will find plenty of it in the great plants at Detroit, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and East Hartford, but not enough in Washington.

A prominent Washington official told me some time ago about a list of dollar-a-year men presented for the president's approval. The president saw some names on it he didn't like, and immediately ordered that no dollar-a-year men were to be appointed without his personal approval. And so the black list of those not regarded as friendly to the New Deal grew. Thus we have second and third-string men where first-string men are needed. This in turn has led to tragedies of which the public is increasingly aware.

Another great weakness: New Deal objectives are in constant conflict with the will to win the war.

Consider, for example, the proposed costly and unnecessary federal power line from the St. Lawrence river to New York City—cutting a 320-mile swath through some of the finest natural scenery in the state, with no honest relation to the war. It is labeled as an emergency measure to supply aluminum for planes, in spite of the fact that it will take years to build and will absorb money, men, materials and other strategic resources needed for actual fighting.

The attorney general has been as busy as a bee harassing great business executives every minute of whose time should be conserved for war production. I talked recently to a man who is responsible for large war orders, and whose work has repeatedly been interrupted to defend himself and his companies against monopoly suits. These actions are so technical and so completely destructive of war production as to appear to be the work of a madman.

Cabinet Weakness.

The average voter is not convinced that our present cabinet represents the ablest people to be found in the country for the work in hand. He knows that if we had a first-rate cabinet there would be little reason for most of the floating alphabetical agencies improvised from time to time to get away from the weaknesses of those at the head of the regular establishments. In war the fans want the best players on the team, not the substitutes.

Our voters are also becoming increasingly critical of theorists unaccustomed to the exercise of great authority who are catapulted into high positions. Our people are ready to make all sacrifices, but they want to know that the orders come from sane, sober, reliable, experienced and honest officials who have thought their way through a problem before they begin shrieking orders from the housetops.

If we must get along with less sugar, tires, gasoline or razor blades, so be it, but let us get the word from someone who has studied the problem of rationing. Contempt for amateur rationers is rampant at a time when respect for public authority is indispensable.

Greatest Defect.

The greatest defect of the present administration is its unwillingness to appoint the best men to be found, and to delegate full authority to them. The New Deal has never taken seriously the old slogan of business—organize, deputize, supervise. And the public is also becoming increasingly critical of the president's reluctance to pin failures on those responsible for them.

These administrative weaknesses are not going to be cured by suppressing critics. This will stimulate them, and render change impossible. The prayer of the magnanimous spirit is for honest critics in and out of his own household. The curse of the powerful is a bodyguard of weak, servile, fond or fawning intimates. Every great leader has to fight them off. Will publicity finally bring home to the president the alternative of a truly national administration of all the talents, or shall we have to wait for further military reverses to obtain this result? We are an essentially simple people, and at the moment are content to let General MacArthur win the war all by himself; but this mood won't last.

A turnover in congress as the result of the fall elections, though it would in a sense make the will of the people felt in high places, may well harm the war effort. I am afraid some pretty terrible fellows will be dredged up and elected. The president won't control them, and neither will responsible leaders of the opposition. This is the most serious aspect of the 1942 election. It is a danger which the president might resolve overnight if he changed his methods.

People Are Loyal.

There is a fathomless depth of loyalty in this country which the president with all his popularity has never plumbed—the loyalty of those who crave a leadership which rises above party, person, ambition and vanity. Millions will follow such leadership without doubt or reservation. If we can achieve it in the coming months of trial, the elections this fall will sink into insignificance.

If democracy, if our very civilization, goes down, it will be politics, personal government and poor administration which are responsible. Fine principles, personal honesty and sacrifice, slogans and eloquence don't win wars like this one. They are won only by a magnanimous leadership which welcomes and supports every force contributing to victory.

The Firefly

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

"The lightning bug is brilliant
But he hasn't any mind . . .
He blunders through existence
With his head light on behind!"

* * *

WHOEVER originated those irresponsible lines told very little except the obvious. On these warm summer nights fireflies light the swamps and meadows with their tiny yellow gleams and hover in the damp air above the undergrowth in swampy places. Few persons realize that here is an invading army of killers, equipped with a mysterious power to render their victims unconscious before devouring them.

What victims? The common sluggish snails that creep about on moist stones or stalks of grass.

The male of this beetle family possesses the power of flight. The female remains among the dewy grasses and has much the appearance of a short-legged worm. She it is who plays the heroine of the skit, "Shine Little Glow-worm, Glimmer."

The firefly creeps gently upon the victim snail, injects a substance to render the snail unconscious, and begins to feed. By some peculiar power he transforms tissues into semi-solid and drinks this soup of snail for several days, until the snail's shell is empty.

I caught a firefly and carried him into the house. I blew out the lamp and watched him creep across a page of newspaper. His little light was great enough to illumine the words of a single line, as he went.

I squeezed him slightly and his glowing ceased. Pressure of my fingers seemed to put the dimmers on. He blacked himself out until given his freedom, when his lamp burned brighter.

Poets have sung of twilight and fireflies' glow — musicians have rendered the glow worm song repeatedly—but to me there is an added mystery and fascination about this little bug when I know that it was he who produced, before the dawn of medical history, an anesthesia—the first twilight sleep of the ages—to keep his diet of snail's flesh from writhing out of reach before he finished dining.

RUTH FUNSTON IS BRIDE OF SOLDIER

Mansfield Girl and Pvt. Harold B. Keffer of Tacoma, Wash., Exchange Vows July 25 In First Methodist Church.

AT 8 O'CLOCK Saturday evening, Miss Ruth E. Funston and Private Harold B. Keffer were united in marriage in the First Methodist church. Rev. E. G. Corwin officiated for the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Funston, 125 Poplar street. Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Keffer of Tacoma, Wash., are parents of the bridegroom.

Before and during the ceremony the following selections were played on the organ by Mrs. Elsie Ireland: "Romance," by Rubenstein, "The Sunshine of Your Smile," "Intermezzo," by Provost, and "I Love You Truly." The processional was "The Wedding March" from "Lohengren" and the recessional was Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

Scarlet gladioli and Queen's Lace in a large beauty basket decorated the altar. For her wedding, the former Miss Funston chose a street length dress of aqua crepe with aqua and white accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of Talisman roses and baby's breath. Miss Urith Funston was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a beige crepe dress with orchid and beige accessories and an orchid corsage.

Eugene D. Funston, brother of the bride, served as best man for Mr. Keffer. The bride was given in marriage by another brother, John G. Funston.

Mrs. Funston appeared at her daughter's wedding in a black and white chiffon redingote ensemble with black and white accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents for members of the immediate families. Later in the evening, Private and Mrs. Keffer left for a short wedding trip to an undisclosed destination.

Mrs. Keffer attended Mansfield Senior high school and is employed at the H. L. Reed company store. The bridegroom was employed in the Tacoma-Seattle Shipbuilding Yards before entering the service. He is now stationed at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, Aberdeen, Md. The bride will continue to make her home with her parents.

Out of town guests at the wedding and reception were Mrs. W. C. Bowsher and Mrs. David Kinsell of Shelby, Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Funston and family of Miamisburg, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Funston and family of Osborn, Miss Janeen Funston of Mentor, Mrs. C. M. Hosler and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burgman of Jeromesville.

EUREKA BIRTHDAY CLUB.

Thirty persons attended the picnic held for the Eureka birthday club yesterday at Schrack's cabin on the Millsborough road. The afternoon was spent with bathing, boating, horseshoe games and cards. Next meeting will be Aug. 12 with Mrs. L. L. Bauer, Lucas.

Lee Hoffman Weds M. Greenstein In Recent Service

Mr. and Mrs. Max Hoffman of Newburgh, N. Y., announce the marriage of their daughter, Lee, to Morris Greenstein, son of Mrs. Harry Greenstein of Columbus. The ceremony took place in Cleveland on July 20.

The bride is a former student at Syracuse and Ohio Wesleyan universities. While at Syracuse, she was active on the staffs of the "Daily Orange" and the "Syracusan," the daily and monthly publications. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ohio Northern university at Ada, where he was a member of Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity and president of the Pan-Hellenic association. He was a member of the Varsity "N" association and captain of the baseball and basketball teams.

Mr. Greenstein is manager of Weinberger's drug store on North Main street.

FAMILY REUNION.

Fifty-one relatives of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Knell gathered at Liberty park Sunday afternoon for their reunion. A picnic supper was enjoyed at 6 p. m. It was then voted that the picnic be an annual affair. Archie Knell was elected president and Charles Frank, secretary-treasurer. The occasion was also the 80th birthday anniversary of Jacob Frank. The last Sunday in July was the date set for next year's gathering.

Cordurella Sea Togs Get Waves Of Attention

For her day's outing the modern miss chooses a swashbuckling ensemble of cordurella—that fine-ribbed, lightweight, feminine corduroy so popular for active sports wear. And what a "yar" subject she'll make for the skipper's color film when it registers the intense bittersweet tone of her jacket and the contrasting little-boy pants in aqua.

Breezily rigged out in a yellow shirt and sage green slacks of masculine cordurex, the captain, too, will hold his own when facing the color camera.

Cordurex and cordurella are sea-worthy corduroys, light and comfortable when there's bo'sn's work to be done aboard, but snuggy warm when a sou'wester unexpectedly blows up. Despite their lack of bulk, their robust construction promises several seasons of rugged wear on land or sea. For don't forget, landlubbers as well as amateur mariners are buying these corduroy sports togs for all types of fun under the sun.

These modern corduroys are available in a range of pleasing colors and classic sports styles for both men and women. Laundered or dry-cleaned repeatedly, they will retain their distinctive color and velvety-soft texture.

HOLD REUNION

GALION—Nine towns were represented when 65 members of the Fetter family held the 19th annual reunion Sunday at Heise park. Relatives were present from Galion, Bucyrus, Mansfield, Shelby, Crestline, North Robinson, Syro, Leesville, and Sulphur Springs.

Officers who have served for the past year are John Fetter of Leesville, president; Will Fetter of Galion, vice president; and Mrs. Chester Bogan of North Robinson, secretary.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Couple Exchanges Vows July 25 At Catholic Church

Miss Audrey Mildred Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beck, Johnsville, and John Joseph Graf, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Graf, 392 Third avenue, were married Saturday morning at St. Peter's church.

The bride wore a powder blue dress with navy and white accessories having a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Anna M. Graf, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor with Peter Graf as best man.

For their wedding trip, the couple left for the Smoky mountains. The bride's traveling ensemble was a navy blue dress with white accessories. Mrs. Graf was a graduate of Johnsville high school and Mr. Graf was graduated from St. Peter's high school. He is now employed by the Cleveland Pneumatic Tool company. They will reside at 1887 East 84th street in Cleveland.

Dormitory Rooms Redecorated In Nation's Capital

By MARGARET KERNODLE
(Wide World Features Writer)

WASHINGTON — Doing up a room delights almost any woman. Doing up 13,000 of them delights decorator Gladys Miller, who is finding the furnishings for government girls' dormitories to be built around the capital.

Gladys is allowed about $75 to decorate each room, which probably will rent for less than $25 a month. She lived in a "low-cost dormitory" once herself and winces at the memory of the hospital-white walls, the sparse furnishings, the bed only 26 inches wide. So she has planned studio-couch size beds, 30 inches wide.

Here are some of the special musts that Nebraska-born Gladys plans for the GG rooms: Cosmetic cupboards with mirror doors, mohair and cotton bedspreads, which won't wrinkle easily, and are in beige color to last longer between launderings.

She picked pretty draperies (some plain, some flowered) with flat pleats made to go through the laundry mangle. The draperies are equipped with new gadgets which slide into the molding and make a hanging less than a two-minute job.

She put another practical piece into the rooms too; a chest, with sections that fit into each other, suported by a low table with collapsible legs (easier to pack). The top lifts up to reveal a make-up mirror. The end of the table can be used for extra seating space.

Gladys managed Venetian blinds for privacy.

Every room is to have six pieces of furnishing, including a chaise lounge (Imagine it, girls! Didn't you always want one?), which can be used as two seats.

She's eager that civilians be recognized for their war work no matter how dull it is. That's one reason she says the dormitory decoration must be pleasant for the girls coming home to read and rest.

WED RECENTLY

BUCYRUS—Mrs. R. W. Breisinger and Sgt. Thomas J. Aspel of the 753rd Engineer's Battalion exchanged marriage vows in a double ring service in First Presbyterian church Friday. Rev. C. D. Loehr performed the service.

Mrs. D. K. Auck attended Mrs. Breisinger. Sgt. Robert M. Griffith was Sgt. Aspel's best man.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, July 28

JUDGING by very propitious testimonies of major planetary configurations solid and enduring progress and worthwhile benefits may be looked for. Through executive ability, well-organized strategies, sustained by attention to details and by initiative and bold strokes, long static situations may be spurred into surprising action and new efforts placed on firm foundations. There may be action in real estate, investments and other sources of income, and gifts or inheritance may figure. In a social way there may be festivities and lively functions.

Those whose birthday it is may look for ultimate recognition and benefits from long and meritorious endeavor. There may be gifts, endowments, and rewards for fidelity and steadfastness. As well, old stagnant conditions may spring into enduring life and solidity, activated by good judgment, executive ability, sound plans and wise programs. Property, investments especially in mining or kindred stocks should rise in value. The personal reactions may be pleasant and justify celebration.

A child born on this day should have much stability of character, with sterling and praiseworthy traits valued by its elders. Its practical abilities may be enhanced by artistic, literary and social talents.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

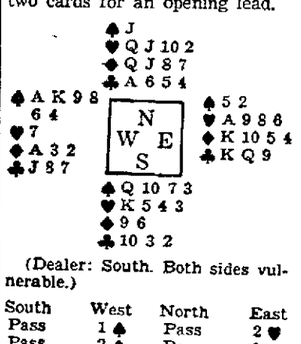
"The Authority on Authorities"

SIMPLIFYING TOO MUCH

When you advise a student to lead touching honors in preference to non-touching ones or a suit containing no honors, it is well to point out the difference between two honors in sequence and three honors in sequence. Every expert tries to avoid leading from a guarded king-queen or queen-jack, if he can, as sometimes the declarer can win that trick in his own hand and then finesse against the remaining honor. If the sequence is of three cards, however, that danger is manifestly impossible. Consequently, a third-card sequence is greatly preferred over one of only two cards for an opening lead.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♥
Pass	2 ♠	Pass	3 ♦
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

North was afraid to lead his heart Q as that suit had been bid by the dummy. He chose the diamond Q instead. The declarer let this run to his A, and had a finessing position remaining over the J. He cashed the spade A and K and led the 9 to the 10. South returned the club 2 to the A and North fired back the heart Q to the A. The heart 6 was ruffed by the spade 4 as an entry to finesse the diamond 10. The diamond K was then laid down, and South could do nothing but trump this with the spade Q.

Besides getting one trick with the club A and two with spades, the defenders also could have taken a trick in diamonds if North had not led the suit. In this case, a heart lead would have been better, even after East had bid the suit.

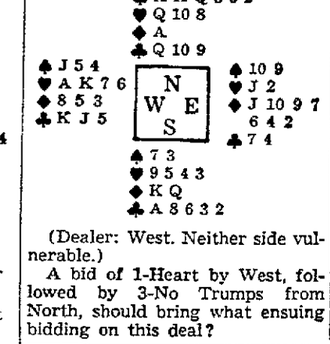
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

A bid of 1-Heart by West, followed by 3-No Trumps from North, should bring what ensuing bidding on this deal?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"THAT does not mean," my father concluded, "that you both are to stay here all the time. Indeed, I would prefer that you adopt the usual method of life of hotel transients. Go shopping and sightseeing, attend the theaters, dine out, but do not go together.

"I shall see that you are always escorted by Dicky, Ronald or myself, except perhaps on shopping expeditions," and here he smiled. "Then I shall detail a guard to watch over you without obtruding himself. You never will know he is near you.

"And now I must get along," he said. "Take good care of Katharine, Margaret, and I would rather that neithr of you left the apartment today."

He bowed himself out and Katharine and I looked at each other, a bit dazed but relieved at the prospect of a long, quiet day.

"One thing I want to declare now," I said, "I don't want to go out in the evening, for I do not want to be out of reach of the telephone at night. So many things can happen."

Anxiety Persists

"But they never do," she said, smiling. "I agree that you are unreasonable, but I can't help a feeling of pleasure at your implied compliment. However, I advise you to get over your anxiety. Didn't you see that Lillian was all wrapped up in the idea of taking care of children? And Miss Whitlock is a rock of strength." "I know" I said. "I feel disloyal to Lillian, and I wouldn't have her suspect my uneasiness for anything. But I can't help feeling that I would rather be within reach of the telephone after dark."

Then one day when Ronald, at my father's bidding, had dutifully escorted Katharine to a matinee, one of the frequent outings the Chief planned for both of us to distract our minds from anxiety, I was surprised and pleased to hear Mary's unmistakable light knock at my door.

Reproaches Mary

"You haven't come over to see me in almost a week," I told her reproachfully, "then you rushed in and out again as if the Furies were pursuing you."

"Don't I know it?" she countered. "And I probably wouldn't be here now except that I think I'm going haywire, and must have a slice of your wise counsel.

"You know," she rattled on, "I'm a pretty lady these days. What with the theater at night and keeping Noel placated about the almost daily engagements for luncheon, tea, or dinner which Grandpa Spencer insists that Olina and I keep with Steve, I don't have time to breathe.

"Oh!"—as she clapped her hand to her mouth childishly—"I didn't mean to say anything like that. He said I should say nothing about it, as you already knew what he wanted me to do. So I haven't done him any harm, have I?"

"Whom do you mean by your pronoun," I asked, to gain time to frame an answer, "my father or Stephen Redfield?"

"You're just stalling while you think over what it's best to tell me," she said shrewdly. "I mean Grandpa Spencer, of course."

"He told me very little, Mary," I said, deciding that truth was the best policy. "He said something of importance had come up about Stephen Redfield and that he needed your aid in finding out more about it. He cautioned me not to discuss the matter with you, but I inferred that you and Olina were scheduled for many outings with Steve.

"So you have told me nothing I did not know or guess," I went on, "and we can close the subject, as Father wishes us to do."

"And you can bet two doughnuts with extra holes in 'em that I won't open it again," she said emphatically.

"Nor I," I assented. "However, that doesn't interest me as much as something else you said just now. What cause have you for going haywire?"

Meeting Held In Columbus

The Key Man's club had a special meeting Friday evening in Columbus. The men were guests of J. R. McDivit and Scott Clyde at the Ohio Institute of Aeronautics, where army men are trained to overhaul all types of planes.

Dinner was served to 24 members. J. K. Sulzer of Mansfield demonstrated a model locomotive which he had made in his workshop. The next regular meeting of the club will be held Aug. 4 at the William McCready cabin near Alta.

Eat More Cheese Say Experts of Our Government

With more cheese available for consumers than ever before, government food supply experts are advising Americans to eat more cheese.

A year ago, it was doubtful whether production of American cheese could meet the demands for shipment abroad. Now, in addition to the quantities bought by the government for feeding our overseas armed forces and our Allies, civilians at home will have plentiful supplies for their dinner tables.

The same things that make cheese an ideal food for shipment abroad, recommend it for greater use here at home. Cheese is a concentration of all the food values that make milk a "must" in any diet, and can be used as part of the daily milk allowance. Cheese contains the proteins needed for building strong muscles; it has many of the vitamins and minerals necessary for health and growth, and is rich in energy-giving fats.

When cheese is plentiful, advises the consumer division of the office of price administration, the housewife who uses it in her meals, is providing her family with nourishing food at low cost. And she is making a contribution to the war effort as well, when she buys food that is abundant rather than using foods which are more limited in supply.

GALION WORKERS IDLE FOUR DAYS RETURN TO JOBS

North Electric Employes Go Back to Work Pending Dispute's Settlement.

GALION — Employes of the North Electric Manufacturing company returned to work with the early morning shift this morning after four days of idleness due to the strike of the production employes.

Although the 866 workers were at their places in the factory which produces vital communications for government orders, no decision has yet been reached as to wages and hours between labor representatives and the company.

W. H. Wilson, international representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical workers, revealed Sunday that members of the company and representatives of the union had been in conference most of Saturday and all Sunday afternoon in an effort to reach an agreement.

He said: "Employes are returning to work upon the advice of Thomas Robertson, of Youngstown, conciliator from the department of labor. However, the unsettled issues in the matter of wage and hour adjustment, will take the regular channels for conciliation and mediation through the War Labor Board."

As yet there has been no written agreement to decide upon improved working conditions and vacations with pay for the workers which was one important request by employes when they struck. In addition, there has been no announcement concerning the 15c an hour increase requested by workers.

If no agreement can be reached between Robertson, Wilson and the company representatives, the next step in the conciliation will be a panel of three conciliators from the Department of Labor to hear both sides of the case. If such a hearing results it will probably be held in Cleveland.

On Saturday night following the day long conference with company leaders employes met and it was at that time that they decided to return to work to await further action in settlement of their wage-hour requests.

NAME OFFICERS

GALION — When the Yeager family met Sunday in Heise park for the 14th annual reunion 35 were present from Galion, Upper Sandusky, Greenwich and Bucyrus. The birthday of Mrs. C. C. Hershner of Galion was observed at dinner.

Elected as officers were Elmer Yeager of Galion, president; and Mrs. Elmer Patzer of Galion, secretary-treasurer.

DAUGHTER BORN

ASHLAND — A daughter was born Saturday at Samaritan hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Eby, Ashland, R. D. 1.

THEATERS

War Drama.

The moving story of an English family's high courage and faith under enemy fire is unfolded in "Mrs. Miniver," the Ohio attraction starring Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon. Based on Jan Struther's novel by the same name the story deals with the day by day account of a family that lives through air raids, blackouts and grief, but carries on undaunted by the confusion about them. Teresa Wright of the New York stage, Richary Ney and Reginald Owen are in the cast.

Japanese Espionage.

An American cafe owner in Shanghai aids a young woman agent in stacking up evidence against the Japanese in "Secret Agent of Japan," the Madison attraction. The two seek the fateful messages that will tip off all the plans for the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor and their activities incur the suspicion of the Japanese. Preston Foster and Lynn Bari top the cast. Wallace Beery has the type of role in "Jackass Mail," the co-feature, that first popularized him with audiences. Marjorie Main and J. Carroll Naish are in the cast.

Nautical Comedy.

Dorothy Lamour forsakes her sarong in "The Fleet's In," attraction at the Ritz, to become the top entertainer in a jive joint frequented by sailors. As a sailor-proof songbird Dottie holds the navy at arm's length until William Holden comes along. Eddie Bracken and Betty Hutton speed the comedy along while Jimmy Dorsey furnishes the music. The score features such hits as "Tangerine" and the title number and Lorraine and Rognan supply the dancing. "What Price Vengeance," with Lyle Talbot and Wendy Barrie is the second attraction.

Polynesian Drama.

Charles Laughton plays a lovable but completely unreliable part-Tahitian who is forever losing the family fortunes through his propensity for betting on cockfights in "The Tuttles of Tahiti," the Park attraction. John Hall, Peggy Drake and Florence Bates are others in the cast of this Polynesian comedy from the pen of Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, who authored "Mutiny on the Bounty." The "Saint's Vacation," with Hugh Sinclair and Sally Grey is the second attraction.

NINE REUNIONS HELD SUNDAY AT GALION; LODGE PICNICS

GALION—With picnics and reunions in full swing, Heise Park Sunday was the busiest day of the park yet this year. Nine reunions were held, together with several family picnics, while the Galion Aerie, Fraternal order of Eagles held their annual family picnic.

Fifty were present for the gathering of the Amick and Fate families Sunday at Heise park. Guests were present from Galion, Mansfield, Johnsville, Caledonia, Lancaster, Marion, and Carlisle, Pa. It was the 19th annual reunion and plans were made to hold the reunion next year at the same time at the same place. Abe Amick, of Galion was elected president, and Mabel Wise, of Galion, secretary-treasurer.

A varied program was enjoyed when the members of the Casto family met Sunday at Heise park for their 19th annual reunion. Officers chosen included James Campbell, of Mt. Gilead, as president; and Velma Bower, of Lexington, as secretary-treasurer. Towns represented were Galion, Mt. Gilead, Lexington, Blooming Grove, and Winchester. The reunion will be held the same time next year at Heise Park.

* * *

Frank Snyder, of Galion, was reelected president when the descendants of the Michael-Anna Snyder family elected officers at their 43rd annual reunion Sunday at Heise Park. Mrs. George S. Hill, of Belleville, was reelected secretary-treasurer. The reunion will be held the last Sunday in July next year at the same place. Mr. and Mrs. Don Beck were in charge of arrangements for the picnic. Guests were present from Mt. Gilead, Mansfield, Galion, Lexington, Belleville, Butler and Columbus.

* * *

Fifty members of the James family met for their 14th annual reunion Sunday at Heise Park with guests present from Galion, Mansfield, Toledo, Bucyrus, Tyro, Cleveland, Mt. Vernon, Marion, Cardington, Darlington and Shiloh. Harry Brown, of Shiloh, was chosen as next year's president, Coy James, of Bucyrus, as vice president, and Mrs. David Enzor as secretary-treasurer. Although the place of meeting has not been definitely decided the group plans to meet next year on the same Sunday in July.

* * *

The same officers were reelected at the Sunday gathering of the Eusey family when they held their 29th annual reunion at Heise Park. Fifty were present to reelect Frank Eusey, of Galion, president; Gordon Eusey, of Mansfield, vice president, and Glenn Eusey of Galion secretary-treasurer. Towns represented were Tiro, Galion, Mansfield and Bucyrus.

CHURCH GROUP TO HOLD RALLY

Young Methodists To Meet Friday, Will Have Hayride.

SHELBY—Youth Fellowships of the Richland County Methodist churches will hold a "Pre-Lakeside" rally Friday at an undisclosed destination.

The young people will meet at 8 p. m. at the school at Five Points on state route 13 north of Mansfield. A hay wagon will be there to take the group to the place where the meeting will be held.

Rev. George C. Beebe, pastor of the Shelby Methodist church, will be the guest speaker. He will talk on the Lakeside institutes.

Miss Jean Buell of Mansfield, county recreational chairman, will have charge of entertainment.

Those attending the affair will be from Mansfield, Shelby, Ontario, Bellville, Butler, Liberty, Pavonia and Franklin.

RITES TUESDAY

Former Postoffice Employe at Ashland Stricken.

ASHLAND — Funeral services for Charles J. Woner, 75, former Ashland assistant postmaster, who died Saturday at his home here following a lingering illness, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Denbow-Bear funeral home. Rev. W. L. Desenberg, assisted by Rev. J. C. Iman, pastor of the Third Street Brethren church, will officiate. Burial will be in Ashland cemetery.

Mr. Woner was born in Wayne county. He had been a resident of Ashland for 49 years. He was assistant postmaster here at the time of his retirement from the postal service five years ago.

Survivors include his widow, Mary J., and a brother, George L. Woner of Butler, Pa.

SHELBY SOCIAL NEWS; OTHER MISCELLANEOUS ACTIVITIES

SHELBY — Thousands of persons gathered at Dick's Grove near here Sunday for the annual picnic of the Most Pure Heart of Mary Catholic church.

Music was played during the afternoon and evening by Tex Foreman's band. Other entertainment including a pony ride for the children was featured during the day.

* * *

Thirty-six members of First Lutheran church have returned from Lakeside where they attended the annual Lutheran summer school.

Six of the Shelby girls were chosen from the junior choir to sing in a sextette. They were Doris Morton, Marjorie Stroup, Joan Briggs, Mary Alice Yarman, Janice Stephan, and Harriet Young.

Preparations for the First Methodist church to send delegates to the annual Mansfield and Norwalk district institute at Lakeside the week of Aug. 16-22, will be completed when the group interested meets Thursday night at the home of Rev. George C. Beebe.

Miss Mary Kingsboro, bride-elect of Everett Tiffany of Shelby, was feted recently at a party given by Mrs. Walter Critchfield at Westbrook Country club in Mansfield. Bridge was the diversion with prizes going to Mrs. George Koch, Mrs. Gerald Lewis, Mrs. William Morris, and Miss Pearl Morris, all of Shelby.

* * *

Mrs. Vera Bell was elected as president of the Ever Ready class of the United Brethren church when that group met recently at the home of Mrs. Walter Wilson for a picnic supper. Other officers named were Mrs. Grace Light, vice president; Mrs. Amy Schreck, secretary; Mrs. Mettie Klein, treasurer, and Miss Lela Crist, pianist.

How To Hold
FALSE TEETH
More Firmly In Place
Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wabbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug store.

SHELBY COUPLE WED SATURDAY

Vera Myers, G. L. Haverfield Exchange Vows in Quiet Church Ceremony.

SHELBY—Miss Vera Emmadel Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen J. Myers of near Shelby, and Glenn Leroy Haverfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Haverfield, R. D. 1, Shelby, exchanged marriage vows Saturday before the altar of the First Lutheran church here.

Dr. D. Bruce Young, pastor of the church, performed the single ring ceremony.

Attending the bride were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marlin Myers, as matron of honor, and Miss Helen I. Seifert and Mrs. Edwin Griffeth, as bridesmaids.

Best man was the bride's brother, Marlin W. Myers. Ushers were Donald Haverfield, brother of the bridegroom, and Edwin Griffeth.

A reception was held at the bride's home following the wedding. Later in the day, the couple left for a short motor trip and upon return will make their home with the bride's parents.

Correction

An incorrectly identified picture was used in connection with an account of the recent marriage of Miss Lois Myles, of Galion to Charles H. Weber. The picture was not that of Miss Myles, but Miss Dorothy Myers, Galion. The News-Journal regrets the error and takes this means of correcting the mistake.

PARENTS OF TWINS

ASHLAND—Mr. and Mrs. Morley Storck of Mansfield, R. D. 2, are the parents of twin daughters born Saturday at Samaritan hospital.

CHANGE DATE

GALION — It was decided to change the date of meeting to the third Sunday in July when members of the Adams family met Sunday for the 15th annual reunion.

S. J. McCune of Galion, was elected president, and Fae Burr of Cardington, secretary-treasurer. There were 45 present for dinner.

MEET SUNDAY

GALION—Inaugurating a new gathering 30 friends calling themselves "the Windfall neighbors" met Sunday in Heise Park for a picnic. It was planned to continue the picnic annually.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

And how did you enjoy my vacation, boys and girls? You did? Swell!

Of course I didn't protest too much when the boys higher up in this office took me to the one side and told me I just had to take a vacation.

"The people," they said, "can stand just so much of this stuff of yours, and now they deserve a rest."

* * *

"Nothing is too good for the people," I retorted, "and I will be very happy to give them a rest."

And it isn't my fault that you didn't get a much longer rest from this column. But it seems there is some law against loitering which says a guy must show some visible means of support, and the Podge is all I've got to show in case somebody gets nosy.

* * *

So it's back to work and the same old grind again for another 51 weeks, and if the people can stand it, I guess I can too.

* * *

What did I do during my vacation? Nothing much.

Went golfing every morning, swimming every afternoon, stayed home every night except Saturday when I took in the Coolridge golf party, the second party of the season at the Huntsman-managed golf club.

With my nose hanging out in the sun all day long, all week long, it got as red as a beet, a pickled beet. And I got sun-burned generally, which might be a good thing.

Now the people can't tell for sure whether I'm embarrassed or whether red is just the natural color of this mug of mine. As Abe Lincoln didn't say: "You can't fool the people all of the time, but you can fool 'em summer the time."

* * *

Finally found the system for beating that golf game. Took my son Joe out to Coolridge for four straight days for his first taste of golf, and what with waiting for him to catch up, it gave me so much time between shots I was completely relaxed.

And instead of my usual 45's, I was shooting 42-40-41-44. Joe must have speeded up that last day.

* * *

Mansfield Tyger grid Coach Paul Snyder, the eminent Mifflin farmer, brought around a couple bushels of vegetables from his garden Saturday, which came in very handy at the end of a vacation. I didn't have any dough in my pocket, but I had kale in the ice box.

Cardinals Try Once More To Halt Durocher's Darlings

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The St. Louis Cardinals, about the only outfit able to make things interesting for Brooklyn, wheeled into Ebbets field today for a three-round showdown with Durocher's Darlings.

Although the world series still is more than two months away, both teams and a few thousand interested onlookers should discover in the next three days whether the Cards will be dealt in or out at the wind-up of the National League campaign.

The last time they visited the banks of the Gowanus, the Cardinals dropped four games out of five, but they went home and developed a counter-punch that flattened the Dodgers three times in a recent four-game set.

If they can remember how they turned that trick, the Cards may be able to prove to the Dodgers that they intend to battle them down to the wire.

The Brooks coasted up to the important series yesterday by stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates twice 3-2 and 5-3, while second-place St. Louis split with the Boston Braves and slipped back another notch, seven lengths behind.

Boston's Tom Earley stopped the Cardinals cold as he pitched the Braves to a 5-2 decision in the first game, but the Cardinals took the second, 5-3.

* * *

Cincinnati regained third by whipping the New York Giants, 6-2 and 3-1, and dropping them back into the four-spot.

At Philadelphia, three home runs in one game by Catcher Clyde McCullough couldn't keep the Phils from turning back the Chicago Cubs, 4-3 and 6-1. McCullough, who had hit only two homers all season, banged three four-baggers in succession in the first game.

In the American League, the New York Yankees downed the Detroit Tigers, 5-2, in the only single game of the day, but added a game and a half to their long lead with the help of the St. Louis Browns, who took a pair from the second-place Boston Red Sox, dropping them 13 games behind.

Denny Galehouse pitched the Browns to a 9-2 decision in the first game, while the heavy hitting of George McQuinn carried the Brownies through, 4-3, in the nightcap.

* * *

Sid Hudson of the Washington Senators blanked the Cleveland Indians, 2-0, in the first game, but the Tribe bounced back in the second, 7-1, with Bus Mills producing a triple and three singles.

The Chicago White Sox and Philadelphia Athletics split, Chicago winning the opener for Ted Lyons, 2-1, and Philadelphia taking the second, 3-2 in 10 innings, with Luman Harris tossing a four-hitter.

Providents Lose 2 Games

Fran Knapp Halts Rally By Cleveland Club.

Mansfield Provident Loan girls dropped both ends of a softball double header to the Cleveland Koch Furnitures at North Lake park yesterday afternoon, being blanked in the opener 4-0, and edged in the nightcap 5-4.

Providents had the second game sewed up at 4-1 until the fifth inning when the Clevelanders got to Alice Iceman for a four run rally. Fran Knapp, who pitched the first game, returned to the hill to halt the second game rally and hold the Furnitures scoreless the rest of the way. There were four runs in, two on base and only one out when she took over the mound burden.

The Providents have another double header scheduled at North Lake next Sunday, meeting Elyria at 3 p. m., and North Ridgeville at 7 p. m.

MAPLE LAKE WINS OVER NORTH PARK

Scoring five runs in the fourth inningA and nine more in the seventh, Maple Lake seniors defeated North Lake 14-6 in a city softball league game.

Bob Kuzava Loses By 1 To 0 Score

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Canton nosed out Charleston 1 to 0 last night in a 13-inning game in which only two pitchers worked and allowed but 14 hits.

Jones, on the hill for the visitors, gave up four bingles in his long tour. Kuzava of the Senators permitted 10, but kept them well scattered.

The lone run came when Outfielder Decker singled, got to third on sacrifices, and scored on a ground out.

Zanesville came out on top of a slugging bee at Erie, 17 to 10. The Cubs accumulated 21 hits, to 11 for the Tars. Five pitchers saw service.

At Dayton, the Ducks whipped Springfield 6 to 3.

Colored Stars Get Tryouts

Three Given Chance To Play With Pittsburgh.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Three colored athletes are scheduled to make major league history on Aug. 4 by trying out for positions with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Although Commissioner K. M. Landis of Chicago recently declared that there was not now and never had been a rule against the use of Negroes in organized baseball, no member of that race ever has played in either the American or National loop.

The three players to be tested by the Pirates are stars in the Negro National league and their effort to make the change has the approval of William E. Benswanger, president of the Pittsburgh club.

Benswanger said he had told Nat Low, sports editor of the New York Daily Worker, that he would be willing to have the three come to Forbes field for inspection and Low named Roy Campanella and Sam Hughes of the Baltimore Elite Giants and Dave Barnhill of the New York Cubans.

Campanella is a 20-year-old catcher and last year was voted the Nego league's most valuable player. Hughes is a second baseman and Barnhill a pitcher.

Benswanger, in telling of the tryouts, said that "Negroes are American citizens with American rights. I know there are many problems connected with the question but after all, some body has to make the first move."

J. Adams Takes Rifle Club Match

J. Adams took first place in the Mansfield Muzzle Loader Rifle club shoot Saturday with a percentage of 41.6 on one cup, two firsts, one second and two thirds.

E. Adams was second with 41.3 and A Wagner third with 26.6.

* * *

In the 50-yard match, Cy Hassinger took first with a string measure of 2.62 inches for three shots, and S. Bushman was second with 2.76.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Ray Robinson is probably the third best colored fighter to come along in recent years. Only Joe Louis and Henry Armstrong rank ahead of him.

* * *

The gangling rug-cutting Harlemite in the sharp clothes has compiled what some historians insist is the longest unbroken winning streak of all times. He is unwhipped in 121 starts—89 as an amateur and 32 as a professional, and is the top contender for the welterweight championship. All he needs to win the title is a crack at it, which he may not get before the army grabs him.

On Friday night he will encounter Slammin' Sammy Angott, the lightweight champion, in an over-the-weight 10-rounder which may do two things (1) Bring a surprising end to that winning streak and the auro of invincibility around Robinson and (2) Make Angott's severest critics admit that he can fight.

Angott's slam-bang flailing has carried him along to an unbeaten record against lightweights since 1939, and the only two decisions he has dropped since then were to welters—Fritzie Zivic and this same Robinson.

The latter beat Angott a year ago and has come on since then to be recognized as the uncrowned welter king.

* * *

Since then Angott has won the lightweight championship successfully defended it and whipped all comers at his weight.

Regardless of the outcome, Angott can't lose anything but prestige, in case Robinson makes this victory No. 122, for no title is at stake, and Angott will sandwich in one more over-the-weight match—or perhaps two—then defend the title against the best man available, probably Allie Stoltz for the second time.

Although he's a family man, has been fighting a long time and now is beginning to approach 30, the dangerous age for fighters, he may be the champ for the duration. His record shows he's better than some would have you believe.

Pairings Made For Tourney

Bob Moorhead Takes Medal In Qualifier.

Pairings for the championship and third flights in the annual Westbrook Country club golf tournament were announced today by Pro Tom Raklets.

Losers in first round of play in the championship flight will make up the second flight, and first round losers in the third flight will go into the fourth.

Bob Moorhead, club champion in 1940, who was unable to defend his title last year because of an injured knee, took medal honors in the qualifying round with a one-under-par 71.

* * *

Al Hager, winner of the Richland county tournament last year at Westbrook, was second with a one-over-par 73, while H. P. Hosler was third with 76, and Gene Zediker fourth with 77. Last year Zediker took medal honors in the qualifier.

The tournament pairings:

Clayton Heafner Makes Bid For Tam O'Shanter Title

By H. C. WARREN

CHICAGO — (INS) — Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., a retired candy maker, was ready to make his bid for the sweetest prize of golfdom, the $2,500 top award in the Tam O'Shanter open golf tournament, in today's 18-hole play-off against Byron Nelson of Toledo, O.

* * *

Heafner, whose previous claim to golfing fame rested on the fact that he won the Mahoning Valley Open championship for two successive years, reached his pinnacle of fame yesterday at the Tam O'Shanter country club by tying Nelson at 280 after 72 holes of blistering golf.

Prior to yesterday Heafner had been so dwarfed by the other golfing greats of the country that his name had been misspelled for two years by the nation's press. Until Heafner yesterday timidly mentioned the fact that his name really was Hcafner, and not Haefner, nothing ever had been done about the error.

Today, Mr. Heafner definitely had established himself as a golfer of note and ready to challenge one of the greatest golfers of all time for the right to take down the nation's richest golfing prize. The 30,000 fans who saw what was expected to be the final round of the Tam O'Shanter open tournament yesterday, were ready to testify that Heafner's hopes for taking the prize might hinge on the inability of Nelson to recover from the complete reversal of form he suffered yesterday.

The crowd, one of the largest ever to see a golfing event in the United States, played an all-important part in the tournament. The jam of milling persons swarmed over the marshal's ropes, crowded the contestants on the tees and the fairways and suffered several near casualties, besides affecting the score not only of Nelson, but of Lawson Little of Monterey, Calif., who finished in third place.

Nelson first began to feel the effect of the crowd and the pressure that was on his every play while on the third tee of the first nine. The crown forged its way to beyond the edge of the tee and was breathing on the Toledo entry's neck as he shot for the third green.

* * *

Three times during the previous rounds of play Nelson had parred that third hole, but this time his ball went into the brook that completely surrounds the green. Nelson took stance to take his penalty shot and the blade of his club shaved the chin of a gurl spectator. Last year's Tam O'Shanter open winner had to settle for a bogey five on the green.

Nelson started the 72-hole final yesterday with a 54-hole score of 203, 13 under par and five strokes ahead of Heafner. During the final 18 holes he carded 38-39—77, five over par, while Heafner came in with 38,34—72 to force the first place issue into today's playoff.

Reds Capture Third Place

Take Double Header From New York Giants.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—A push to the bottom of the first division and a three-day stay there may have jolted some life into the Cincinnati Reds who open a three-game series with the Phils today.

The Redlegs recaptured third place from New York yesterday by beating the Giants 6-2 and 2-1, and they used the Ottmen's own weapons to do it—hits and homers.

The Reds made a dozen hits off Bob Carpenter and Ace Adams in the opener and 10 more off Harry Feldman and Bill McGee in the nightcap.

Rookie Outfielder Max Marssall clouted a three-run homer in the seventh inning of the opener.

Frank McCormick belted his 11th homer for the winning run in the fourth of the nightcap. Paul Derringer walked on four straight balls, and astonished the Giants by scoring from first on Gee Walker's double in the third with the other Redleg tally.

The Reds helped Derringer and Elmer Riddle to their fifth victories by turning in seven double plays—five in the finale.

Banishment of Manager Mel Ott in the first frame of the opener hurt the Giants—and hurt the feelings of 37,155 New York fans, some of whom tossed fruit and pop bottles at Umpire Jocko Conlan. Conlan gave Ott the third ousting the Giant manager has had in 17 years for what the arbitor thought was too vigorous protest of a called third strike.

Ray Starr, trying a fifth time for victory 13, or Johnny Vander Meer, after his tenth, was the probable Redleg hurler for today against Rube Melton.

Indians Battle For 2nd

Trail Red Sox By Only 2 Percentage Points.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Second place in the American League was at stake today as the Boston Red Sox came here to open a four-game series with the Cleveland Indians.

Cleveland split a double header with Washington yesterday, and Boston lost a pair to St. Louis, which put both the Redskins and Bosox 1½ games behind the league-leading New Yorkers. Boston, however, maintained second standing by virtue of two percentage points. ....558 to Cleveland's .556.

* * *

The Tribe picked Al Milnar to oppose Tex Hughson, Red Sox rookie.

Cleveland gained a split yesterday by winning the second game, 7-1, after Sid Hudson pitched Washington a 2-0 victory.

Hudson allowed the Tribe seven scattered hits and one walk, and only one Redskin reached third base. Vernon Kennedy, the loser, held the senators to four hits in eight frames. Harry Eisenstat permitted one hit in the ninth. The Indians lost the game in the fourth when both Nat runs scored on Stan Spence's double, Lou Boudreau's error, a single and a long fly.

Buster Mills took hitting honors in the nightcap by cracking four for five, including a triple; batting in four runs and scoring two, including his theft of home in the third inning.

Al Smith was credited with the victory. He granted the Senators five hits in seven innings, but was relieved by Elsenstat after he walked the first two men to face him in the eighth.

HANFORD, Cal. —(U.P.)—Undiscouraged by tire rationing and the curtailment of automobile manufacture, Henry Desouza, Hanford garage proprietor, broke ground this week for the construction of a $10,000 garage, just when most garage men are curtailing their activities. "I have faith in America's future," he said.

Vancouver Island, with an area of 12,400 square miles, is almost as big as Massachusetts and Connecticut together, but has a population of only 125,000.

STOCK PRICES BACK DOWN IN MART DEALING

Seriousness of Steel Scrap Situation Pointed Out By Trade Journal.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Prices generally backed away fractions in today's stock market proceedings.

In the minus column were U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Union Carbide, General Electric, Paramount, International Nickel and National Distillers. Up a shade were Electric Auto-Lite and Goodrich.

Analysts of market motivators studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which again pointed to the seriousness of the scrap situation and its possible threat to the maintenance of high capacity mill operations.

The nation-wide drive for scrap, the publication added, was getting under way but had not been in effect long enough to show concrete results. Material from automobile wreckers, it was said, has been appearing in sizable amounts although going immediately into current melt because of the pressing need for supplies.

DEFENDS RIGHT TO AIR LICENSE

Radio Station Called on To Show Why FCC Shouldn't Order Revocation.

Satterlee, former president of the corporation operating the station, under cross-examination, when shown records of the file of the FCC, admitted that Richland, Inc., had not actually been formed as a corporation until nearly four months after it had applied for a license to operate.

He admitted further that the application had been made April 27, 1938, and that the company was not formed as a corporation until Aug. 6, 1938. He also admitted that no officers had been elected at the time the application was filed.

Counsel for the FCC, Attorney Donald M. Harris of Washington, introduced a letter from the commission, dated Aug. 15, 1938, which requested personal financial statements of the four original stockholders, Satterlee, Dr. D. R. Talbott, John Weimer, and N. S. Loris.

Harris then told the examiner, as a matter of record, that no such personal financial statement had ever been filed with the commission.

Satterlee, on the stand throughout the morning, testified that the original meeting of Richland, Inc., was held Aug. 26, 1938, and that to the best of his memory, the only persons present were himself, Weimer, and C. A. Kissell. He added that stocks were assigned at that meeting, but so far as he knew, the shares were not distributed but were kept in a book which he later saw several times in the possession of Thomas Dunigan, Cleveland attorney, who handled the incorporation papers.

AIRPORT WORK CREW LAID OFF

Wolff Says Maintenance Work Needing Immediate Action Completed.

day differed with Director Wolf, declaring considerable new work remains to be done and that maintenance work is a necessary continuous operation.

"There's constant need for maintenance men and I surely hope we have them," declared S. D. Christy, chief instructor of the airport school, Monday.

"The three workmen," Christy continued, "were doing splendid work with limited equipment. Continuous maintenance service in repairing runways, mowing weeds and marking runways for convenience of pilots is of vital importance. It is hoped those who were laid off, or replacements, will soon be provided."

Director Wolff could not be reached at non today for a statement as to whether or not the city service department will act now on port officials' request for rehiring of the three men or the hiring of a new ground maintenance crew.

SHOE FIRM HIT

FTC Accuses It of Misuse of Red Cross Emblem.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The federal trade commission today charged the Red Cross Shoe company with "misuse of the American National Red Cross name and emblem for commercial purposes" in the sale and distribution of shoes.

The commission issued a complaint alleging that the company's use of the Red Cross name and emblem in various forms of advertising constitutes violation of public law and of the federal trade commission act.

GO TO DAYTON

BUCYRUS—Misses Irene Volk, Kathryn Hildebrand and Jean Bailey of Bucyrus will leave Thursday for Dayton where they have accepted civil service positions as junior stenographers.

37TH TO CONVENE

CONNEAUT—(AP)— The annual convention of the 37th Division A. E. F. Veterans' association will be held here Sept. 5-7 instead of at Springfield, President Warren Williams of Toledo said today. Lack of hotel accommodations was given as the reason for the change.

SECREST WANTS ACTION

CALDWELL—(AP)— Assignment aboard a battleship or cruiser is the goal of Rep. Robert T. Secrest (D-Ohio) who announced he would resign from congress within two weeks to accept a lieutenant commander's commission in the Navy.

WINS GUN DISPLAY

Army Stresses Vital Need for 'Little Fellows'

HARLINGEN, Tex. — (INS) — Good news for the little fellow—when the sign tells you "The Army Wants MEN," they're talking about you just as much as that big bruiser who could probably lick you with one arm tied behind his back.

In fact, if you have brains and intestinal fortitude, the Army wants YOU especially.

"Today's most dangerous fighters are about five feet four or five inches tall and weigh between 130 and 140," declares the Harlingen Army Gunnery school.

Men with those qualifications are streaming today into the nation's three gunnery schools, largest of which is located at Harlingen in the citrus valley around the lower Rio Grande.

The big, rawboned fellow still has his place in the Army, all right, but it's not in the interior of a ball turret on a bomber. That's reserved for a man only two-thirds his size.

Turrets have to be small and comparatively light, to allow the planes maximum maneuverability, and they're driven by small hydraulic motors. Just one man—and a pretty small one at that—can squeeze inside. But his work at the trigger protects the bigger fellows sitting in comparative comfort up front.

10 GOOD REASONS FOR MAKING A LOAN

There are many reasons why we make loans today—to pay the doctor, the dentist, to keep the old car running, to take a training course, for traveling expenses to a better job, for moving expenses, to repair or paint the house, to lay in the winter supply of coal now, to pay past-due bills and charge accounts, to meet unexpected cash emergencies.

Threatened Meat Shortage Strikes Nearer Mansfield

with the market on hogs dropping 50 cents a hundred at Galion. Light hogs there dropped to $12.50 per hundred from $13.

One of the objectives of the government program is to bring down the price of livestock on the hoof so that packers won't lose money when they are forced to sell at ceiling prices.

The shortage grew serious today in the eastern states, many packers and meat dealers reporting they were out of beef, pork, and veal. Housewives were urged to use fish and poultry as substitutes.

Retailers who buy in small quantities found many local packing houses empty, and stores having normally large supplies found the buying unusually heavy for the week-end.

Joseph Cohn, counsel and executive director for the Meat Trades Institute, an organization of independents, said the shortage was grave.

"No immediate relief of the situation can be expected," Cohn said, "without a ceiling on livestock and effective measures assuring that manufacturers abide by the true ceiling and refrain from diverting production to other areas."

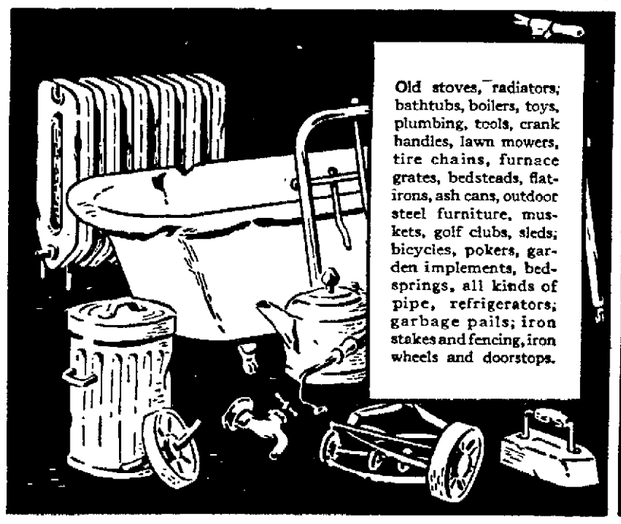
SAVE THIS CHART

Needed for War

Follow this chart and save it as a basis for collecting waste materials in your house and on your premises.

SCRAP IRON AND STEEL



Old stoves, radiators; bathtubs, boilers, toys, plumbing, tools, crank handles, lawn mowers, tire chains, furnace grates, bedsteads, flatirons, ash cans, outdoor steel furniture, muskets, golf clubs, sleds; bicycles, pokers, garden implements, bedsprings, all kinds of pipe, refrigerators; garbage pails; iron stakes and fencing, iron wheels and doorstops.

HELPS MAKE

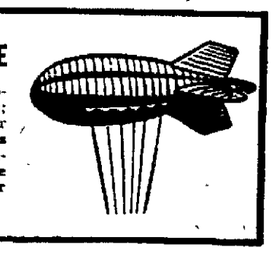
Shells, guns, cargo ships, aircraft carriers, armored cars, tanks, submarines, range finders—all machines and arms of warfare. About 50% of every tank, ship and gun is made of scrap iron and steel.

OTHER METALS . . . RUBBER . . . RAGS . . . MANILA ROPE . . . BURLAP BAGS

Old batteries, lighting fixtures, cooking utensils; automobile and bicycle tires and tubes, garden hose, rubbers; clothing, dust cloths, rags, draperies, rugs, carpets; Manila rope in any condition; burlap bags.

HELPS MAKE

Bombs, fuses, binoculars, compasses; planes; tires for trucks, jeeps; gas masks; barrage balloons; parachute flares; insulation for electric wiring.



HOW TO TURN IN YOUR JUNK

Sell it to a Junk dealer
Give it to a charity
Take it yourself to nearest collection point

Or consult your Local Salvage Committee. Phone: 1368-6

If you live on a farm and have as yet no method of disposing of scrap, phone or write your County War Board or consult your farm implement dealer.

OTHER VITAL MATERIALS NEEDED AND HOW TO DISPOSE OF THEM

Waste Fats To help relieve shortage of fats and oils. Needed for glycerine to make explosives. Save pan and broiler drippings and deep fats after you've got all the cooking good from them. Strain into wide-mouthed tin can, that is spotessly clean. Keep in refrigerator or cool, dark place until you have collected a pound or more. Then sell to your meat dealer.

TIN TUBES — Tooth paste, cosmetic and shaving cream tubes. Turn in at drug store when you purchase new supply.

WASTE PAPER — Needed only when announced by Local Salvage Committee.

TIN CANS — Wanted only in certain areas accessible to detinning plants, as announced locally.

NOT NEEDED (at this time) — Razor blades and glass.

We are facing a crisis in our war production program. Unless we salvage at least 6,000,000 additional tons of scrap iron and steel promptly, and great quantities of rubber and other materials, our boys may not get all the fighting weapons they need—in time . . .

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

The Junk which you collect is bought by industry from scrap dealers at established, government-controlled prices.
